HOW G. I. HAM

The Herald, of Los Angeles has the following account of the death of George I. Ham, of Napanee:

"Dudley Harvey Elder, great Millionaire C. W. Harvey, brother, and George I. Ham, Mexico City banker, were killed their automobile dished over bankment at the Pellissier bridge, the Puente road, just north of the early Monday.

"Their bodies were found pinned beneath the overturned automobile. Both had been drowned in the waters of the river."

"Ham was fifty years old, a wife, one married daughter, son, Harry Ham, who drove last Phoenix race.

"The accident happened at the end of the Pellissier bridge over the creek. About thirty feet of the bridge had been washed away by the floods and the damage was not repaired. The car went over the bankment and plunged down the overhanging bridge. It partly over, and both men, caught, were drowned.

"Elder and Ham were returning from a fishing trip in the San Francisco mountains. In the party Elder and Ham were Mrs. G. Ham, Harry Ham, Don L. Cadillac agent in Los Angeles. The party were in two automobiles.

"The car in which the Ham Elder were travelling suffered trouble, and Mrs. Ham and Ham finished their trip in machine. Elder and Ham, paired the tire and followed.

"Not knowing the condition of the Puente road at the Pellissier bridge, Elder and Ham drove directly at high speed.

"When Mr. Ham failed to return home, Mrs. Ham sent William Arthur King of the Rancho de search for the men. The King went over the Puente road and reached the Pellissier bridge, they found the wrecked machine and the men.

"Unable to extricate the men, they secured Undertaker Whittier and other men and bodies were taken to Whittier.

PRESENTATION BY TAMWORTH AGRICULTURAL CLASS.

The students of the Tamworth Agricultural Class held a dance and presentation at the town hall Tamworth, on Friday evening, April 17th. Over 250 guests were present.

On behalf of the members of the Agricultural class, Reeve E. J. Harrison presented Messrs. G. B. Curran, B. S. A., and C. A. Tregillus, B. S. A., the instructors, with a beautiful Morris chair add gold cuff links, and read the following address:—

To Messrs. G. B. Curran and C. A. Tregillus,

District Representatives of Ontario Department of Agriculture,

In asking you here this evening we must say it is with feelings of profound appreciation of your services to us that we have been prompted so to do. We have felt the need many times heretofore of someone so take active interest in the teaching to the young men of our community of the Science of Agriculture and we, through you, wish to compliment the Department of Agriculture, which you represent on their efforts in this regard, and also we compliment ourselves in being so favored as to have for our instructors in the short course of Agriculture, given in this township the past winter, men who are so well informed in all the branches of Agriculture, who are so zealous in their work, and so capable of imparting the knowledge they possess.

We therefore, in appreciation of all you both have done for us, hope that you will ever cherish the memories of Sheffield township near and dear and ask you to kindly accept these gifts in the spirit which they are given, and we further hope that you may be both long spared to further and promote to a still higher level in this capacity, the best and noblest of all industries.

Signed on behalf of the Tamworth Agricultural class.

GOOD FRIDAY "DRY" DAY OF

Although meagre in its content the Government's license legislation this session tends to place further restrictions upon the liquor traffic bill which was introduced in Legislature by Hon. W. J. contains no sensational provisions consists of only six sections.

The first change is to include Friday along with Christmas of the days on which liquor is sold.

The second clause deals with right of appeal from conviction of the illegal sale of liquor. He a licensee only had the right of appeal from a conviction, but the law amended to include druggists, druggists' association thought this provision was only fair amendment makes it clear druggist has the right of appeal in all other cases the law provides the only appeal lies to the High Court under a writ of certiorari.

One of the important changes that giving a Magistrate power to any person on the "Indian list" sells liquor to or procures it for a person already on the list. Explanatory has shown that many persons on the prohibited list are supplied with liquor by friends, who enjoy them the convivial time. A term in jail has not proved a deterrent to this practice, and it is thought that if their own supply is ended these people will not be so likely to offer their good services.

In view of the growth of local law with respect to the liquor being kept separate for each locality is to be changed. He these fines are to be kept in on for each district, and the expense of enforcing the law in that district be paid out of it. This will do with the nuisance of keeping a number of small accounts where one serve the purpose much better.

Another change will affect the vision requiring a person found the influence of liquor in a local district to tell from whom he got the liquor, under a penalty of $10 for refusing. The change will brace all places where no tavern licenses are issued, a person who is found under the influence of liquor in these places subject to the same penalties was a local option district.

The last section is designed to strengthen the hands of the government in enforcing the law in counties or districts where the Canadian temperance act is in operation.

In counties the law is to be enforced so that the Province may prove of the consolidated revenue fund half of the amount required to enforce the law over and above what is able out of the fines received penalties imposed. Under the provision of Sir Oliver Mowat the Province has been paying only one-third deficiency.

In unorganized districts the cost of enforcing the Canadian temperance act is to be borne by the province, and for this purpose $50,000 has been put in the estimates. This affects the district of Manitoulin the Scott act will come into force the first of next month.

G. I. HAM DIED

TOWN COUNCIL.

Herald, of Los Angeles, Cal., following account of the tragic of George I. Ham, formerly of Napanee:

William Harvey Elder, grandson of Mrs. C. W. Harvey, of Whitby, and George I. Ham, former City banker, were killed when their automobile dashed over the trestle at the Pellissier bridge on the main road, just north of Whitby Monday.

Their bodies were found both beneath the overturned automobile. Both had been crushed and killed in the waters of Sheep creek. Ham was fifty years old, and leaves one married daughter, and one son, Harry Ham, who drove in the crash.

The accident happened at the east end of the Pellissier bridge over Sheep creek. About thirty feet of the bridge was washed away by the recent flood and the damage was not yet repaired.

The car went over the trestle and plunged down beneath the arching bridge. It turned over, and both men, caught between the wheels, were drowned.

Mr. and Mrs. Ham were returning from a fishing trip in the San Bernardino mountains. In the party besides Mr. and Mrs. Ham were Mrs. George I. Ham, Harry Ham, Don Lee, the agent in Los Angeles, and the party were in two machines.

The car in which the Hams and their travelling suffered tire trouble, and Mrs. Ham and Harry finished their trip in another machine. Elder and Ham, sr., reached the tire and followed.

Knowing the condition of the road at the Pellissier bridge, the car drove directly into it and was wrecked.

Mr. Ham failed to reach his home. Mrs. Ham sent William and King of the Rancho de Rey to look for the men. The King boys found the Puente road until they reached the Pellissier bridge. There they found the wrecked machine and the bodies. The amount to be raised is $12,641.60.

FRIDAY "DRY"
DAY OF YEAR

ough meagre in its concessions, the government's license legislation tends to place further restraints upon the liquor traffic. The bill was introduced into the Council Chamber.

April 20th, 1914.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor Alexander in the chair.

Present—Reeve Denison and Councillors Walters, Wiseman, Waller, Carson, Dickinson and Graham.

The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from Lieut. B. R. Simpson, which stated that the Department of Militia and Defence intended holding a signalling class for the instruction of signallers in Napanee and would like to secure the use of the town hall for this purpose. The hall would be used two hours per day for four weeks.

Ordered laid on the table until later in the evening.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee reported recommending that the arc lamp in front of Mr. A. T. Harshaw's residence be replaced with an incandescent lamp. Also that a light be placed at the corner of Dundas and York streets, and a light at the corner of Dundas and Napier. They also reported in reference to the petition of E. Walker and others for a light on the corner of Thomas and Union streets recommending that the prayer of the petition be granted.

Report adopted.

The Poor and Sanitary Committee reported that they had investigated the matter of the drain leading from the gas house to the river. They reported that there was such a drain in existence and that the said drain was discharging into the river water which had on its surface a certain amount of oil.

No recommendation was attached to the report. Report adopted.

A by-law for the appointment of an assessor for the town of Napanee for the year 1914 was introduced and passed.

Mr. Geo. A. Cliffe was given the appointment at a salary of $200.

A by-law providing for the issuing of debentures to pay off the temporary loan used in the construction of the diversion outfall sewer was introduced and passed. The amount to be raised is $12,641.60.

Mayor Alexander reported to the council that Mr. W. J. Paul, M. P., had informed him that the plans and specifications for the drill hall to be erected in Napanee had been sent to the Government printing office and upon their return tenders would be called for the erection of the buildings.

Mayor Alexander also reported to the council that Miss Ida Joyce, a young lady who had the misfortune to fall on the walk on Dundas street last February, had consulted with him in reference to being reimbursed for the expense occasioned by the accident.

No action was taken as it was made plain that the corporation was in no way to blame for the accident.

Moved by Councillors Waller and Carson that a new watering cart be purchased and that tenders for same be asked for and sprinkler to be of

Easter Millinery

We are opening to-day a choice lot of New Millinery suitable for spring and summer.

The artistic note is strongly pronounced in most of the hats and there are very few, if any, shapes which are too extreme to be generally becoming and to appeal to the taste of the most discriminating wearer.

The use of Taffeta and Moire in both piece goods and ribbon has certainly been revived to greater honors than ever before, they are shown in all colors.

The underbrim trimming is a new feature of Flowers, Osprey, Smart Feather Mounts, Stick-Ups and Wing Trimmings, all being considered very good.

We would also draw your attention to our Children's Hats.

Lovely New Blouses in sizes from 34 to 42. Come and see them.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM ALL BOWEL ILLS.

If your bowels are out of order, instead of using some harsh salt or other physic, take a Rexall Orderlie to-night and to-morrow you will feel great. They taste good and act so easily that there isn't a particle griping or purging, nor the excess'v loose-ness that follows the taking of salts and most pills. They soothe and strengthen the bowels, promptly relieve the constipation, making it unlikely to occur again.

We don't believe there is any other bowel remedy anywhere near as good, and at the same time so easy and pleasant to take as Rexall Orderlies. We know you will agree with us and believe you will thank us for telling you about them. If they don't satisfy you in every way, come back and tell us and we will give back your money without a word or question. You have no reason to hesitate when we give you the opportunity, as we here- by do, to try them at our risk. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50c.

RESOLUTION COMING.

Liberal Criticism of Budget May Be Incorporated In Amendment.

OTTAWA, April 21. — The House devoted another day to the discussion on the budget, and the debate will probably continue until Thursday. As yet no amendment has been offered to the formal motion by the Finance Minister that the House go into committee on ways and means, but it is expected that a resolution will be offered calling for free food, free wheat and free agricultural imple-

Yesterday's debate was carried on by Messrs. Turgeon (Gloucester), Smith (N. Ontario), Warnock (McLeod), Weichel (N. Waterloo), Neely (Humboldt), and Clarke (N. Wellington).

The debate was resumed by Mr. Turgeon (Lib., Gloucester, N.B.) He was followed by William Smith (Con., N. Ontario), who said that the Liberals from 1880 to 1896 had threatened the tariff with destruction, and many people had been deterred from investing in manufacturing enterprises on that account. Once in power, however, the Liberals had maintained the tariff, which they found in force, and the country had greatly prospered.

Mr. Warnock (Lib., McLeod) said reciprocity in wheat between Saskatchewan and Alberta would mean nothing at all, as both provinces were seeking an export market. He said the opposition to free wheat appealed to prejudice by saying that the demand came from American settlers. These so-called "American settlers" were in the main repatriated Canadians, who had been driven out of Canada by the fiscal policy of the former Conservative Government.

Mr. Weichel (Con., Waterloo) declared himself as favoring moderate protection as Canada's fiscal policy.

Dr. Neely (Humboldt) said if a referendum was taken in the prairie provinces 95 per cent. of the people would vote for free wheat.

TO GO TO CAPITAL?

Plans For U. S. Campaign Include Capture of Mexico City.

WASHINGTON, April 21. — The war plans of the Government—for all the preparations show the intention to resort to the actual use of force within a limited area of Mexican territory—embrace the use of the army as well as the navy and the marine corps. The program agreed on calls for joint operations of the three branches of the military service with the marines.

In the discussion of an aggressive plan of operations short of war, having for its object either the rescue of Americans and other foreigners in the City of Mexico or the lesser task of holding the town and port of Vera Cruz against a force of Mexicans, it was agreed that the marines after landing at Vera Cruz should push forward along the line of railway leading to the capital, for a distance of eight miles, to a point where a concrete bridge spans a canyon. This is a place of great strategic importance, and will be one of the hard nuts to crack if an advance on the City of Mexico should be regarded as necessary.

The elaborate plans drawn for marine corps operations contemplate the taking of the City of Mexico, for the purpose of rescuing Americans and other foreigners if necessary. A quick dash for the Mexican capital before the arrival of any troops at

OFFERS TO SETTLE UP

J. W. Moyes' Overtures to Municipalities Turned Down.

Special Meeting of Local Bodies Concerned In Affairs of West Shore Railway Is Called to Consider Proposal From Promoter, But Representatives Insist That the Probe Be Continued.

KINCARDINE, April 21.—John W. Moyes, promoter of the West Shore Railway, which is now under the probe of the Ontario Railway Board, has made an offer of settlement to the municipalities concerned. This offer was considered at a meeting of representatives of the municipalities yesterday and was rejected, the representatives agreeing unanimously to press the inquiry and take chances on the final outcome.

The offer from Mr. Moyes is to return to the municipalities $178,000 worth of unguaranteed bonds secured and $2,000 in cash, plus the railroad as it stands at present. In the latter is included the right-of-way, the steel and ties laid, the value of grading and other work done, and the equipment at present on the road. There was nothing to indicate what was wanted in exchange, but it is understood that had the proposition been accepted the inquiry, so far as the municipalities are concerned, would have been dropped.

to crac to an advance on the City of Mexico should be regarded as necessary.

The elaborate plans drawn for marine corps operations contemplate the taking of the City of Mexico, for the purpose of rescuing Americans and other foreigners if necessary. A quick dash for the Mexican capital before the arrival of any troops at Vera Cruz is the keynote of the plan. All the offensive military plans for the navy and the marine corps have not been completed, but the basic principle of the program of operations decided on contemplates the seizure of Vera Cruz and Tampico and the blockade of both coasts of Mexico.

"MILLIONAIRE" WAS CRAZY.

So Judge Sets Aside Will Providing Medical Institution.

MONTREAL, April 21.—The will of Abraham Lincoln Pacaud, who died at Verdun Asylum on Jan. 29 last worth $200, has been annulled by Justice Charbonneau on the ground of insanity.

Pacaud, who was a well-known insurance broker in the city, seemed to be under the illusion that he was a millionaire and left annuities totaling about $50,000 a year to various parties, including young ladies the testator had known many years ago in Chicago. After the deaths of the parties named the estate was to go to McGill University to found a department for the cure of malignant diseases such as cancer, to be known as the "Abraham Lincoln Pacaud Foundation."

There was nothing to indicate what was wanted in exchange, but it is understood that had the proposition been accepted the inquiry, so far as the municipalities are concerned, would have been dropped.

The proposition, which was in writing, had been given to Mr. Wm. Proudfoot, K.C., M.P.P., and was read by him at the meeting, which was held in Kintail, the central point for all the representatives in the heart of the district affected by the railroad.

After the offer was considered the following resolution, moved by James Brown, of Huron, and seconded by Charles Stewart, of Ashfield, was carried unanimously: "That the offer of settlement now made by Mr. Moyes be not accepted, and that the solicitors be instructed to press the inquiry to a conclusion as speedily as possible."

The investigation resumes before the Ontario Railway Board to-day.

TRYING TO BEAT BLOCKADE.

German Steamer With Guns For Huerta Racing to Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, via Galveston, Texas, April 21.—Intense interest was created here yesterday when it became known that a German steamship is racing for this port at the topmost speed of her engines in order to unload her cargo of 200 machine guns, a quantity of small arms and ammunition before the American fleet under Rear Admiral Fletcher can establish a blockade of the harbor. All the guns and munitions are for the forces of Gen. Huerta, but the European port from which the vessel sailed has not been disclosed.

Under international law, a blockade must be effective if vessels in the category of the German ship are to be prevented from landing their cargoes.

A question may arise concerning whether war exists under the present status of things. At all events, the American battleships must be standing guard off Vera Cruz if the German vessel is to be prevented from entering the port.

R. H. Clemens Goes to Monteith.

GALT, April 21.—It was announced yesterday that the resignation of R. H. JOBLESS INVADE HALL.

Montreal's Out-of-Works Seek Employment From Mayor.

MONTREAL, April 21.—Mayor Martin's rush invitation to out-of-works to call at the City Hall yesterday morning was answered by fully 5,000 men of all classes. By 10 o'clock it needed about 100 policemen to handle the mob. The recently-elected mayor promised work for 2,000 on street cleaning and repairs, and there ensued a wild scramble for tickets entitling the bearer to work nine hours for the city for $2.25.

A detachment of three to four hundred disappointed ones rushed one of the entrances and forced its way to the door of the mayor's office. All that he promised them was that they might be employed later on in the spring.

MAJ.-GEN. COTTON DEAD.

Former Inspector-General of Militia Passes Away Suddenly.

ALMONTE, Ont., April 21.—Maj.-Gen. W. H. Cotton, former inspector-general of the Canadian Militia, died suddenly at the residence of his son-in-law, Alex. Rosamond, here last night at 11 o'clock.

The late brigadier was well known throughout Canada and especially in Ontario, having commanded No. 2 military district with headquarters at Toronto, before being appointed inspector-general of the militia in succession to Gen. Sir William Otter. He was the son of the late Henry Cotton, of Montreal, and was born in that city on Jan. 7, 1848. He was educated at Quebec High School and received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Quebec Garrison Artillery in 1866.

In 1882 he was promoted commandant of the Royal Canadian Artillery, with rank of lieutenant-colonel, and 18 years later was made full colonel. In 1907 he was appointed brigadier-general. His staff service was long and varied, he having served as A. A. G. for artillery and quartermaster-general at Ottawa.

His widow, four sons and three daughters survive.

Men and Jobs.

From Girlhood

THE change may be critical and cause untold suffering in after-life. The modern young woman is often a "bundle of nerves"—"high strung"—fainting spells—emotional—frequently blue and dissatisfied with life. Such girls should be helped over this distressing stage in life—by a woman's tonic and nerveine—that has proven successful for over 40 years.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

is a keen enemy to the physical weaknesses of woman. A medicine prepared by regular graduated physician of unusual experience in treating woman's diseases—carefully adapted to work in harmony with the most delicate feminine constitution.

It is now obtainable in liquid or sugar-coated tablet form at the drug store—or send 50 one-cent stamps for a trial box, to Buffalo.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. Pierce and his staff of physicians and Specialists at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that experienced medical advice will be given to her free.

A MEAGRE RECORD

THIRD SESSION OF PARLIAMENT UNDER BORDEN ADMINISTRATION RIVALLING FIRST TWO SESSIONS IN PAUCITY OF CONSTRUCTIVE LEGISLATION.

The end of the third session of Parliament under the Borden Administration is now in sight. The legislative achievements during three years of Conservative government and the results of Conservative rule may now be fairly well gauged. For the balance of the present session there is no constructive legislation promised. The principal work still to be done before Parliament prorogues is the voting of some $200,000,000, of supplies and the consideration of the Canadian Northern Railway Aid proposals.

The record of the present session is on a par with the record of the two preceding sessions, in regard to paucity of constructive legislation and in regard to the lack of any real progress in the line of Canadian development either in national, international or Imperial affairs. During the first session of the present Government the principal items of legislation were the extension of the boundaries of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba, and the Aid to Agriculture Act appropriating $10,000,000 over a period of ten years for agricultural instruction throughout Canada. In regard to the latter Act the Government had the hearty support of the Opposition in so far as the principle of the bill was concerned, although objection was taken to the violation of the constitutional practice of annual appropriations subject to the approval of Parliament. In regard to the extension of provincial boundaries, the Government acted practically along the lines already arranged by the Laurier Administration after conferences with the various provinces. The only new feature was the gift of $2,000,000 from the Federal treasury to Manitoba, thereby violating the original basis of agreement among the provinces in regard to pro-members have so far been discreetly silent.

When Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance, delivered his budget he was naively frank in his explanations as to why free wheat was refused. He placed the arguments of organized agriculture in favor of the abolition of the duties, over against the arguments of the millers against the abolition. Then to obtain the casting vote he placed on the side of the millers the arguments of the transportation companies—and there it was; no free wheat. The millers must be accorded protection, and the big transportation companies must lose none of the monopoly of the carrying trade which they now enjoy.

No one was surprised when Mr. White reached his conclusion. It was quite what was to be expected. But as if the argument needed bolstering nearly every member who has spoken on the government side since, has added further reasons. It has been argued that the National policy was designed to provide protection for farmer and manufacturer alike, and that in consequence the farmer must be protected—even against his own wishes—and the duties on wheat must be maintained, even though under present conditions they constitute simply an export duty. In fact the general attitude taken throughout has been that while the steel interests, the transportation companies and the manufacturers know what is best for their business, the farmer does not—and must be educated.

Strangest of all the arguments, however, is that which has been employed by a number of the speakers on the government side. It is in effect that the western farmers are very well off at present, that they have had innumerable concessions already, and that they have really no reason to look for more at the present time. Speaking in this vein in the Commons during the past week Oliver Wilcox, member for North Essex said:

"I do not want to take any credit from the west to which it is entitled. But is it not a fact that if they are frosted out we are only too glad to buy them more seed; if they are haled out we are willing to help them? We have built transcontinental railways to traverse the west, including the Transcontinental which will cost the country $200,000,000. We are building them elevators, etc., etc. Surely we must come to the conclusion that things are not so bad in the west as honorable gentlemen on the other side would lead us to believe."

It is to be recalled that early in the session Hon. W. T. White declared it as his opinion that the chief reason for the high cost of living was under-

than these made. Mr. Dugal asserts and stands ready to prove his assertion that through an agent Mr. Flemming collected $15 a square mile upon some 8,000 square mile of timber lands from the lumbermen of New Brunswick, who made the payment because of their knowledge that they were in the Premier's power. Mr. Dugal asserts that money which was supposed to go into the construction of the Valley Railway was never used for this purpose, that the road has been represented as costing far more than was actually paid out, that members of the Government received different sums of money from contractors before these latter men could get work to do on contracts over which the Ministers had control.

This is what has followed from Conservative administration in New Brunswick. Six years ago Hon. J. D. Hazen, the present Minister of Marine and Fisheries in the Borden Government, became Premier of New Brunswick. He made many promises of honest, economical administration. He made Mr. Flemming his first lieutenant. He made Mr. H. F. McLeod, the present Federal member of York, N. B., a member of his Government. The promises of economical administration were proven empty words. New Brunswick affairs have never been dealt with so extravagantly as under the Government of which Mr. Hazen was at first the head. When Mr. Hazen went to Ottawa he recommended Mr. Flemming as his successor. To-day the Dugal charges suggest all too clearly that the Conservative Government in New Brunswick has been worse than extravagant—that it has been guilty of corruption of the worst and most brazen kind. The most startling stories of American political corruption have revealed nothing worse than the conditions indicated by the Dugal charges.

And this is the condition which has been brought in New Brunswick by Conservative administration of public affairs under a Government which for two years past has been in close alliance with the Borden Ministry at Ottawa.

A GOLD-BRICK FOR THE FARMERS.

REDUCTION OF DUTY ON BINDERS AND MOWERS OF NO REAL VALUE TO AGRICULTURALISTS.

Since Hon. W. T. White announced in his budget speech that the farmers of Canada were to get a great "boon" by a reduction of 5% in the duty on binders and mowers in lieu of free wheat and wider markets and free agricultural implements generally, there has been no wild shout of joy from agriculturalists. They know the boon is a gold-brick, just as Mr. White must have known when he made the announcement of the tariff cut. The farmers of Canada on an average buy a mower or a reaper perhaps one in ten years, or longer. Did the reduction of 5% in duty really mean corresponding reduction in price by the manufacturer, the average farmer might make perhaps 50 cents per year out of Mr. White's tariff "concession" to him.

But what are the real facts? The manufacturer of binders and mowers is practically in the hands of two great concerns, the International Harvester Company and the Massey-Harris Company. These two great concerns, manufacturing on each side of the border, have practically monopolized the whole business. Tariff or no tariff, they can keep prices up at will. Were the tariff removed entirely on these two classes of farm implements any reduction in the price in Canada would practically mean that the American products of these con-

YOU CAN'T EARN MONEY WHEN YOU'RE LAZY

There are a lot of people in town who can't afford to be lazy. Perhaps none of you feel that way, but certainly some of you can't soon as you are sick, your wages and worry and debts begin to tell. The sensible thing for you to do soon as you feel run-down and out, no matter what the cause, take something as quick as you can to build up strength and health, yourself more comfortable and against serious sickness.

We don't believe there is any medicine made that will do as much towards saving your health and helping you save your money as all Olive Oil Emulsion. It is a cure that gets right at the trouble, relieves it by toning the nerves, enriching the blood, and giving health and strength to the body. It doesn't do this by an alcohol or habit-forming drug, because it contains none. Its strength and health giving power is pure Olive Oil and the Hypophosphite long endorsed by successful physicians for its food value, for its tonic value. Here, for the first time, they are combined, and the result is a real nerve, blood and the approval of Parliament. In regard to the extension of provincial boundaries, the Government acted practically along the lines already arranged by the Laurier Administration after conferences with the various provinces. The only new feature was the gift of $2,000,000 from the Federal treasury to Manitoba, thereby violating the original basis of agreement among the provinces in regard to provincial subsidies from the federal treasury.

In its second session the Borden Government devoted its main energies to an attempt to pass the $35,000,000 contribution to the Admiralty. It is sufficient comment on the reactionary character of the legislation to say that during the present session the Government and its supporters have been discreetly silent about the contribution proposals, while the Liberals are still willing and anxious to test the feeling of the electors on the issue.

This session there have been two main features. The one is tariff revision upwards in the interests of a few of the manufacturing allies of the Administration. The other feature, which is still to be developed, is the further aid to Messrs. MacKenzie and Mann, supplementing the gift of last session.

Of legislation for the removal of trade restrictions, for the relief of the consumers from the steadily increasing cost of living or for lessening the cost of production and increasing the returns to the agriculturists of Canada, there has been practically none.

FARMERS MUST BE "PROTECTED."

GOVERNMENT AND MANUFACTURERS INSIST THAT THEY KNOW BETTER THAN FARMERS THEMSELVES WHAT IS GOOD FOR AGRICULTURISTS.

During the progress of the budget debate in the Commons nothing has been more noticeable than the desperate attempts made by government speakers to justify the action of the Administration in refusing to the western farmers the boon of free wheat. This has been specially noticeable in the case of the representatives of rural constituencies, from whom have emanated arguments as varied as they are illogical, explaining why free wheat was refused. To eastern rural members has this task of apologizing principally fallen. Western rural the Transcontinental which will cost the country $236,000,000. We are building them elevators, etc., etc. Surely we must come to the conclusion that things are not so bad in the west as honorable gentlemen on the other side would lead us to believe."

It is to be recalled that early in the session Hon. W. T. White declared it as his opinion that the chief reason for the high cost of living was underproduction, and the best solution which could be found was to encourage the movement to the land. The inconsistency of the two contentions cannot but be obvious, since according to Mr. White's statement it is not the prosperity of the farmers alone, but the prosperity of the whole nation which is bound up in the prosperity of the basic industry of agriculture.

Liberal members have a different view of the subject. Give the farmers a market for their products and an opportunity of producing at the least possible cost, they claim, and you will assist every industry in the Dominion. Make the farmer prosperous, and the manufacturer will be prosperous also. The interest of the one is vitally bound up with that of the other.

The organized farmers of Canada through their accredited representatives, have memorialized the Government for free wheat and for free agricultural implements. The Government, in effect, says that the farmers do not know what is best for themselves and with the assistance of the manufacturers is proceeding to "educate" the farmers as to their needs.

THE NEW BRUNSWICK SCANDAL.

CONSERVATIVE PREMIER FACES MOST SERIOUS CHARGES MADE IN YEARS AGAINST ANY CANADIAN PUBLIC MAN.

The gravest charges made against public men or against any government in Canada within many years have been laid against Premier Flemming, of New Brunswick, and the Government of which he is the head.

Briefly, the charges are these:

That Mr. Flemming, through an agent, has extorted from the lumbermen of New Brunswick more than $100,000 by a process of blackmail and has made no account of the money to the Province.

That members of the Fleming Government, a Conservative administration, compelled railway contractors to pay them large sums of money to obtain contracts on the construction of the St. John Valley Railway.

That, under the Fleming Government, large sums of money which was supposed to go into the construction of that railway has been diverted from the road and used for other purposes.

These staggering charges have not been lightly made. From his seat in the New Brunswick Legislature and speaking on his responsibility as a member of that House, Mr. L. A. Dugal has made the accusations and demanded an investigation in the interests of the people of his Province. Public opinion will compel the Government to yield to the demand and the whole story of alleged graft and blackmail by Conservative politicians will be brought out by Mr. Dugal and by Hon. William Pugsley and Frank B. Carvell, M. P., who are giving him assistance in his attempt to bring wrong-doers to justice.

Personally, Premier Flemming has not denied the truth of the charges. All that he has done has been through another member of the Government who has declared the charges false. But it is significant that there has been no attempt on the part of the Premier or his colleagues to hasten the investigation which Mr. Dugal has rightly insisted shall be held. Meanwhile, Mr. Flemming has temporarily retired from the Government and is reported ill at his home. No grayer charges could be possible

Harvester Company and the Massey-Harris Company. These two great concerns, manufacturing on each side of the border, have practically monopolized the whole business. Tariff or no tariff, they can keep prices up at will. Were the tariff removed entirely on these two classes of farm implements any reduction in the price in Canada would practically mean that the American products of these concerns would, if they were going to cut prices in Canada, be competing with themselves and the Canadian branches. The way it will really work out is that this 5 per cent reduction on binders and mowers will figure only in the Conservative campaign literature. It is doubtful if under the circumstances the tariff reduction will effect by a single cent the profits now made by the millionaire manufacturers, nor will it reduce by a single cent the cost of binders or mowers to the farmers.

Meanwhile on the great majority of farming implements—on plows of all kinds, on drills, on rakes, on harrows, on threshers, on cultivators, huskers, etc.—there is no reduction. The continuance of an export duty on wheat—which is the practical result of the refusing to accept the standing United States offer of reciprocity in wheat—means that the farmers, particularly in Western Canada, must lose every year several millions of dollars through inability to sell in the best market, while at the same time the retention of the duty on agricultural implements means that they must pay several millions more per year for their tools of production.

MAULED BY A LION.

An Unexpected Attack and a Perilous and Exciting Mixup.

Captain C. H. Stigand was once mauled by a lion, and he recounts the adventure in his "Hunting the Elephant In Africa." The captain had shot a lioness, and while watching the body from a tree he saw two lions approach. They stood over the lioness and roared alternately for half an hour. He succeeded in shooting them both, but on approaching the body of his second victim he found that it was not quite so dead as it had seemed. "I approached the edge, and immediately the inert mass assumed life and, with a roar, sprang on me with one bound. The orderly, who was a few yards behind me, immediately retired precipitately. As the lion sprang I fired into his chest, and he landed on me, his right paw over my left shoulder, and he seized my left arm in his teeth. As my left arm was advanced in the firing position, it was the first thing he met.

"The weight of his spring knocked me down, and I next found myself lying on my back, my left arm being worried and my rifle still in my left hand underneath his body. I scrambled around with my left arm still in his mouth until I was kneeling alongside of him and started pommeling him with my right fist on the back of the neck. He gave me a final shake and then quickly turned round and disappeared in the grass a little nearer to the station than I was."

The author adds that he was drenched with blood, and upon examination he found eight big holes in his arm and three claw marks on his back, a damage that partially disabled him for two years. He remarks modestly that since that adventure he has bagged seven more lions.

It Was Simply an Abbreviation Was Always Pronounced "And."

How does it happen that in and reading ancient manuscripts call the character our ancestor for "the" by the ridiculous "y."

They said "the" just as we the only apparent reason for it the character is that two cent the letter "h" was usually written a tail below the line and with top, which made it look like. Then the word was so frequent that it was contracted, just word "and" was then treated to this many of us.

When I was a boy, more than years ago, the alphabets in our books always ended with the "and." We called it "ampersand" considered it a fine snapper rattled off the alphabet. So when sufficiently cultured we the full title "and-per-se-and."

FRANCIS KOSSUTH WEDS.

Romantic Marriage Crowns Adventurous Career of Patriot.

The adventurous life of Herr Francis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, who for the last fifty years has been one of the most notable men in European politics, has been crowned by a romantic marriage on a bed of sickness.

His bride is the Countess Benyorszky, the widow of an old friend. It was on November 24 that the betrothal of Herr Kossuth to the Countess was announced.

Herr Kossuth has been seriously ill for some time, and for some days his condition gave rise to grave anxiety. Realizing this, the aged statesman summoned the Burgmaster, and his civil marriage to the Countess was celebrated at his bedside.

Patriotism has been the keynote of the bridegroom's life, which, following the lead of his father, the great Louis Kossuth, he has devoted to the service of his country.

From his childhood he has lived in an atmosphere of excitement and romance. In 1849, when Francis was eight years of age, his heroic father led the Hungarian rising against the rule of Austria. The boy

"Anything else?" he asked eagerly. "Your salary will soon be raised." "Go ahead. Do you see anything else that is encouraging?" "You will in a short time start on a trip around the world." "Fine! What else?" "Your worst enemy will be ruined before the year is ended." "Say, wait. You're getting things mixed. Just before I came in here, a man in whose judgment I have a lot of confidence told me I was my own worst enemy. Let's go back to the trip around the world and start again."

A Huge Kitchen.

It is believed that the largest kitchen in the world is that of the Bon Marche, in Paris. It provides food for all the employees of the house, 4,000 in number. The small- est kettle holds 75 quarts, the larg- est 375 quarts. There are fifty fry- ing pans, each of which is capab- le of holding 300 cutlets at a time or frying 220 pounds of potatoes. When there are omelets for breakfast 7,800 eggs are used. The coffee machines make 750 quarts of coffee daily. There are sixty cooks and 100 kitchen boys employed.

Tactful Remark.

Mrs. Fatleigh, a lady who did not belie her name, got thirsty during a social entertain-ment and smilingly mentioned the fact to a group of young men standing near her chair. There was a rush to supply her want, and the young man who reached her first with a glass of water she com- plimented on his quickness.

"Oh, that's nothing," he replied lightly. "I'm used to it. I got into many a circus and menagerie when I was a boy by carrying water to the elephant."

The State and the Individual.

The state may make it easy for a man to acquire a small holding, but it cannot give the man the energy, the industry, which are necessary if the boon is to be an abiding blessing to him. The state may help men over bad times, but it cannot give men the moral character which enables those who possess it by their energy, deter- mination, industry, to place them- selves beyond the reach of temporary disaster.—London Strand Magazine.

Unconcerned.

An incident illustrating the plac- idity, if so it may be called, of the Duke of Wellington has reference to a naval officer, a near connection of the duke. The ship which this of- ficer commanded was lost, and he himself was drowned. When the news was communicated to the duke he merely exclaimed, "That's the second ship he has lost!"

Large Eagle Shot.

A large eagle, disporting on the ice in the river, was shot by Bert Storey in the vicinity of Big Island, near Brockville. The bird measured eight feet from ip to tip o. its wings.

A Rather Rocky One.

sleepy old-world Eastern city, has been converted into a great railway-building centre. It is the real base of operations for the Bagdad Rail- way, and huge quantities of railway- building material have been collect- ed there. Locomotive works and re- pair shops have been erected, as also temporary barracks for the large army of workmen employed in the construction of the line.

During the building of the Aleppo section five hospitals were establish- ed, with ten doctors and an equal number of nurses to attend to all cases of accident and sickness among the workers, free of charge. At Aleppo nowadays all is bustle and activity. Trainloads of material ar- rive daily, over the railway built by the French, from the Syrian port of Tripoli.

Protect Us!

To the question, "What would you do if you found a member of your family unconscious from gas?" a first term high school student replied as follows:

"If I should find a member of my family unconscious from gas I would chaff the arms, loosen the clothing to quicken respiration and press the chest together. If two persons was working over them one would hit them on the head and the other would slap at their feet. If all your other efforts fail, use artificial res- piration."

Declined With Thanks.

Speaking of burglars, there is a story of a man who prepared to meet possible burglars by purchasing a small revolver. It was a nice little affair, with "For Burglars" neatly engraved on the butt, and he was very proud of it, but one evening he forgot to take it upstairs to bed with him as usual.

When he came downstairs in the morning he found the house despoil- ed of all valuables and a note lying beside the revolver: "Thanks, but I always carry my own! The Burglar."

A Cruel Insinuation.

Stern Old Lady — They tell me, madam, your husband is continually smoking dreadfully—

Young Woman (bursting into tears)—I don't believe it, your horrid old thing!

Old Lady (astounded) — What's the matter with the woman?

Officious Bystander — Her hus- band's dead.

He Had Been There.

Rodrick—Howdy, old man? We are going on a camping trip soon. Did you ever enjoy a camping trip where you had to do your own cook- ing and sleep beneath the stars?

Van Albert—Nope.

Rodrick—What? Do you mean to say you have never been on a camping trip?

Van Albert—No. I mean to say that I never enjoyed one.

Constipation

is an enemy within the camp. It will undermine the strongest constitution and ruin the most vigorous health. It leads to indigestion, biliousness, impure blood, bad complexion, sick headaches, and is one of the most frequent causes of appendicitis. To neglect it is slow suicide. of the bridegroom's life, which, fol- lowing the lead of his father, the great Louis Kossuth, he has devoted to the service of his country.

From his childhood he has lived in an atmosphere of excitement and romance. In 1849, when Francis was eight years of age, his heroic father led the Hungarians rising against the rule of Austria. The boy was taken prisoner by the Austrians, and for some time was kept in the fortress of Presburg. When he was liberated he was still a child, but was exiled from Austria. First he went to his father, who was ill in Asia Minor. From there his father took him to England, where he was given a good education, studying engineering at London University. For two years he worked as a practical engineer on the Forest of Dean Railway. Then he went to Italy, and rose to distinction as a civil engin- eer, and he had some part in the building of the Mont Cenis Tunnel. On the death of his father in 1894 he was asked by his countrymen to bring the dead man's body back to Hungary, and he grafted the re- quest.

Herr Kossuth was shortly after elected to Parliament, where by his eloquence and ability as an organizer he earned the position of leader of the party of Independence and spokesman of the revolutionary movement in Hungary.

His single-minded and whole- hearted fight for the Hungarians gained him great popularity in the country, and when the Hungarians Parliament resisted the encroach- ment on constitutional rights, Kos- suth was elected leader of the co- alesced parties forming the majority of the House.

In 1896 he was appointed, by the monarch who had exiled him when a child, to a position in the Cabinet, and in a little while he was leader of the House. He was invited by the Austrian Emperor whom he had opposed so bitterly, to come to Vienna and discuss with him possi- ble means of settling differences be- tween Austria and Hungary. His wide travels in Europe earned for him the title of "The European." He writes six languages fluently, and is an author of distinction. His first wife was an Englishwoman.

Youthful Officer.

Greece boasts the youngest non- commissioned army officer in the world. He is only 13, and was a cafe waiter when hostilities broke out. As the military authorities refused to accept him on account of his age when he volunteered for service, he managed to be taken along, unofficial- ly, by the 18th Regiment. At the bat- tle of Elassona, says "Les Nouvelles," he took part in the fight, using the rifle of a soldier who had been killed, and his bravery at the battle of Sara- naporos caused him to be admitted to the regimental ranks. Subsequently he was promoted, first to corporal, and then to sergeant, and was de- corated by his sovereign.

Indian File.

This is another name for single file. It had its origin in a custom among the Indians of the north, who, when on the warpath, moved in single file—the one behind tread- ing with great care directly in the footprints of the man preceding and the last man carefully obliterating the footprints of those who had gone before him. In this way the In- dians succeeded in concealing their numbers from the enemy and very frequently in concealing their where- abouts also.

Appointed Assessor.

At the meeting of the Town Council on Monday evening Mr. Cliff was again appointed assessor this year. Mr. Cliff is one of the assessors the town has ever had. Some dissatisfaction was caused the raise in assessments last year though Mr. Cliff was not in a to blame for this. The large increase in debenture debt, the increase for by the Board of Education the necessity of providing liberally for the various undertakings of the town made an increase collectable taxes imperative. The increase in assessments in the town would have found it able to finance the affairs of the town even on a 30 mill rate. The increase in property values is more than the increased assessments.

Ladies' Musical Club.

The last meeting of the Musical Club for the season was on Friday last, and was one of merit and careful preparation. Opening number by Mrs. F. VanLaven was a dainty song by Frantze, sung with beauty and expression. Mrs. Black following with a Piano Chaminade, played with beauty showing her to be a musician. Mrs. VanLaven next gave a song by Shuman, which for of sentiment and dainty setting was a delight to the hearers, showing the high quality of her voice and deep penetration of the spirit of the song. Mrs. Black and Miss Hall gave solo with fine musical expression. VanLaven following with a group of songs, showing a range of her voice, singing an one seldom hears outside of city. A delightful trio by Mrs. VanLaven, Misses Hall and Nespletted one of the best programs of the season, Miss Luella Hall plying in her usual finished artistic manner. The people of the neighbourhood owe these a debt of gratitude for the manner in which they have their time and talents for the sure. DOUGLAS FIR.

The Tree With a Future.

There are trees in Canada whose commercial importance is clearly on the wane. According to one of the latest bulletins of the Dominion Forestry Branch, the value of the white pine lumber cut in 1912 was one and a half million dollars less than in 1911. The cut of hemlock decreased thirty per cent ; that of cedar decreased twenty seven per cent and tamarack, the lumber production of which has decreased over forty per cent in the last two years, bids fair soon to become commercially extinct. Of the six leading tree-species in Canada Douglas fir was the only one whose lumber production increased in 1912
In the Province of British Columbia is at present by far the richest timber province in Canada, containing, according to some estimates, one-half the merchantable timber wealth of the Dominion.

This remarkable tree attains a height of over two hundred feet with a trunk ten to twelve feet in diameter, forming, alone or mixed with hemlock great forests extending four hundred miles north of the International Boundary. Its natural range extends in Canada to the Eastern foot-hills of the Rocky Mountains in Alberta, where it grows to a height of 130 feet and a diameter of four feet, and is considered one of the most important timber trees on the Dominion Rocky Mountains Forest Reserve, which covers an area of nearly 21,000 square miles.

It is widely distributed throuout the western United States, being able to stand considerable climatic variation and being practically immune to insects or fungus diseases.

Dr. C. S. Sargent, one of the greatest authorities on American trees, describes the wood as hard, durable,
and largely used for all kinds of construction. According to a recent Dominion Forestry Branch publication on the " Wood-using Industries of Ontario," it is increasing in popularity in that province for decorative purposes as " it has an attractive grain and figure which readily lends itself to staining."

The Douglas fir has been introduced into Europe with great success and large forests have been planted which are now yielding handsome profits.
Germany and France purchase every year large quantities of seed from the Indians in British Columbia.

LOOSE SMUT OF OATS.

Nearly all the cereals that are raised in this province are subject to disease of one sort or another. These diseases belong to two large families the Rusts and Smuts, of these the smuts do the most damage. The loose smut of oats is about the commonest that appears in this part, and one that is very easily controlled, by employing a simple treatment before sowing the seed in the spring. This disease attacks the head of the Oat and changes it in a dark brown powder, leaving only the naked central stem and branches. The powder is blown about the field and will lodge upon the seeds of other oat heads. In this way the powder or spores as they are called are carried over the winter. In the spring when the oats are sown the spores germinate at the same time as the oat seeds. The little shoot then enters the oat plant through the first leaf sheath and grows up with it drawing its nourishment from the larger plant.
When the oat flowers the tiny branches of the smut enter the blossoms and feed on the flowers and young seed
and when it has reached its highest development and has consumed the
entire flower and seed, it breaks up in-
to a fine powder and each small particle is a seed that can carry the

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, April 20.—It was only for a brief interval today that the war outlook prevented a fresh collapse of the corn market. Holders especially, seized the opportunity to press the sale of huge amounts, and to get in line with the sharp competition from Argentina. Prices closed weak at a loss of 3/4c to 1 1/4c, compared with Saturday night. Wheat finished 1/4c off to 1/4c up, and oats a shade down to a like advance, but provisions were demoralized almost as much as corn, with declines varying from 20c to 67 1/2c to 70c.

UNION STOCK YARDS.

TORONTO, April 20.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 111 cars, comprising 2301 cattle,
777 hogs, 30 sheep and 152 calves.

Butchers.
Choice steers sold from $7.75 to $8.10;
good, $7.50 to $7.75; medium, $7.25 to $7.40; common, $7; choice cows, $6.75 to $7; good cows, $6.25 to $6.50; common to medium cows, $5 to $5.50; canners and cutters, $3.75 to $4.75; bulls, $6 to $7.25.

Stockers and Feeders.
The market for stockers and feeders held about steady. Choice steers, 800 to 900 lbs., sold at $7.25 to $7.35; steers, 600 to 700 lbs., sold at $7 to $7.15; stock heifers, $6.25 to $6.75.

Milkers and Springers.
Very few milkers and springers were offered for sale; these sold at $60 to $100 each.

Veal Calves.
The calves on sale yesterday were not of a very good class, the bulk of them being of eastern production. Choice veal calves are worth $9.50 to $10.50; medium to good, $7.50 to $8; common to medium, $6 to $7; rough eastern, $5 to $5.50.

Sheep and Lambs.
Receipts of sheep and lambs were not as large, with prices very firm. Sheep, cows, sold at $6.50 to $7.50; rams at $6 to $6.50; yearling lambs at $7.75 to $9.50;
spring lambs at $7 to $9 each.

Hogs.
Receipts were light, and out of 777 reported on the market, 500 of these were
of northwestern production and consigned
to the Swift Canadian Company.
Prices were reported 10c lower, at $9 for selects fed and watered; $9.65 to $9.75
f.o.b. cars; $9.25 weighed off cars.

FOOLISH TO SUFFER FROM STOMACH ILLS.

What's the use of suffering from heartburn and other disagreeable things caused by Dyspepsia and indigestion, when we offer you the privilege of using Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk, with the distinct understanding that if they don't relieve your stomach trouble and make your stomach comfortable, and your indigestion easy, they will cost you nothing. If they don't do all you expect them to, we want you to tell us and let us give back your money.
We know what they have done for others, and what they are made of.
That is why we have confidence in them.

Among other things, they contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science. They soothe and comfort the stomach, relieve heartburn and distress, promote the secretion of gastric juice and make the bowels regular. We believe them to be by all odds the best remedy for indigestion or dyspepsia ever made. We believe you will say so, too, once you have used them. If you don't they the blossoms of the tiny branches of the smut enter the blossoms and feed on the flowers and young seed

and when it has reached its highest development and has consumed the
entire flower and seed, it breaks up in-
to a fine powder and each small
particle is a seed that can carry the smut on to uninfected oat seed. The disease has then completed its life cycle and is ready to commence another generation the following year.

THE REMEDY—It has been found by repeated experiment that the spores will not live through the winter in the soil, but that all infection is carried by means of the spores that attach themselves to the seed before the harvest. These will remain on the seed either inside or on the outside during the winter and are carried to the field in the spring.
From this we know that if we can kill the spores while they are on the seed there is no danger of them getting to the field and germinating with the crop. It is very simple to treat the seed before sowing it to destroy all the spores. There are many different methods in use at the present time but the simplest and most efficient is by the use of formalin. By bringing the formalin in contact with each seed all the spores clinging to it will be killed and there will be no smut in that plant at all.

There are two ways of using the formalin, the immersion or soaking method and the sprinkling method.

Immersion Treatment—1 lb. or 1 pt.
of formalin is dissolved in 42 gallons of water and the sack of seed is put into the solution allowed to remain for 20 minutes. The seed is then emptied out on to a clean floor and where it should dry rapidly as possible to prevent injury to the germinating power. This has given the best results of any system tried and is cheap, handy and effective.

The Sprinkling Method—In this method 1 pt. of formalin is diluted with from five to ten gallons of water.
The seed is spread out on a clean floor and sprinkled with the solution. The seed should be constantly stirred so that every grain is thoroughly moistened.

The seed in each case should not be sown until it is quite dry, or it will not feed evenly through the machine.

The cost of Formalin in small quantities at the local stores is about 50c a pint, and one pint will do a large quantity of seed, from 30-40 bushels.
Every farmer at a small cost should safeguard himself against probable loss from this common and destructive oat disease.

RURAL DEANERY MEETING.

The best meeting for years of the Chapter of the Deanery of Lennox & Addington was held in S. Mary Magdalene Church, Napanee, on the 16th inst. There were present Revs. Rural Dean Jones, Canon Roberts, C. E. S.
Radcliffe, A. L. McTear, R. W. Spencer, W. E. Kidd, and R. W. Irvine, also
Mr. F. F. Miller and G. F. Rutman, K. C.

After the service of Holy Communion, the Chapter proceeded to apportion the amount of missionary money required by the Church for the ensuing year. The following is the apportionment.

Adolphustown, $175; Amherst Island, $160; Bath, $125 (not accepted);
Camden East, $300; Deseronto, $140;
Napanee, $500, estimated; North Addington, $110; Selby, $110; Tam-worth, $280, (not accepted.) Not apportioned, $285.—Total, $2,185.

After adjournment the Chapter was entertained to luncheon by the Rural Dean at the Campbell House.

The regular monthly meeting of the
W. C. T. U. will be held in the Public Library Board Room on Tuesday, April 28th at 3 p.m.

Receipts were light, and out of $77.50 reported on the market, 500 of them were
of northwestern production and consigned
to the Swift Canadian Company.
Prices were reported 10c lower, at $9 for
selects fed and watered; $9.65 to $9.75
f.o.b. cars; $9.25 weighed off cars.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, April 20.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending April 18, were 1250 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 3550 hogs and 1750 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1100 cattle, 150 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 500 calves.

A feature of the trade today was the weaker feeling in the market for cattle,
and prices declined 25 cents per 100 lbs., which was attributed to the fact that offerings were much larger than expected by the trade.

There was no change in the market
for small meats, prices being steady.
The supply of sheep and lambs was small with a fair demand. Spring lambs sold at from $3 to $6 each, and a few extra choice ones brought as high as $8 to $10.
The trade in calves was active, and offerings were ample to fill all requirements. The tone of the market for hogs was weaker.

Butchers' cattle, choice, $6.50 to $7.25;
do., medium, $5.50 to $6.25; do., common,
$5 to $5.50; canners, $3.75 to $4; butchers' cattle, choice cows, $4.75 to $7; do., medium, $5.75 to $6.50; do., bulls, $5 to $7.25;
milkers, choice, each, $80 to $90; do.,
common and medium, each, $70 to $75;
springers, $50 to $60; sheep, ewes, $7 to $7.50; bucks and culls, $6 to $6.50; lambs,
$8.50 to $9; hogs, off cars, $9.50 to $9.75;
calves, $3 to $15.

SPRAYING THE APPLE ORCHARD

There are thousands of apple trees in the county of Lennox and Addington that could be made profitable with a little care and attention. Every farmer should produce at least a good variety of apples for home use. To produce good clean fruit a tree must be pruned, sprayed, cultivated and fertilized.

PRUNING.

Before a tree is sprayed, it should be pruned. With old apple trees that have been neglected, the pruning must not be too severe the first season. All dead wood must be removed, high top limbs cut back and cross branches cut out. This lets air and sunlight in to the heart of the tree, so all the fruit will color evenly. The rough bark on the trunks and large limbs should be scraped off. The tree is now ready to be sprayed.

NUMBER OF TIMES TO SPRAY.

Apple trees should be sprayed three times each year, and in some seasons a fourth application is necessary.

DORMANT SPRAY.

The first spraying should be given just before the leaf buds open. This spraying destroys the Oyster-shell Bark Louse, the eggs of the American Tent Caterpillars, Apple Aphid, Blister Mite, and also holds in check fungous diseases such as Apple Scab and Canker. It is of great value in cleaning up old trees.

For this dormant spray use 1 gal. of commercial Lime-sulphur to 9 gals. of water. Four gals. of Lime-sulphur will make a 40 gal. barrel of solution ready for spraying. This is a strong solution of Lime-sulphur, and must not be used after the leaf buds burst or it will burn the leaves. No poison is used with this first spraying.

TENT-CATERPILLAR SPRAY.

The second spraying is given just before the blossoms open. A poison must be used with this second spraying. The poison is to destroy the young tent-caterpillars, bud-moths and other worms. This second spraying also prevents Apple Scab.

To make the spray mixture, use one and one-third gal. of commercial Lime Sulphur, and dilute up to 40 gals. with water. To each 40 gals. of this mixture 2½ lbs. of paste arsenate of Lead must be added as a poison.

CODLING MOTH SPRAY.

This third spraying is the most important of all for the fruit and should never be neglected in bearing orchards. It should be done JUST AFTER THE BLOSSOMS FALL. This destroys the Codling Moth, the cause of "Wormy apples." It also prevents Apple Scab.

Use 1 gal. of commercial Lime Sulphur to 30 gals. of water and to this solution add 2½ lbs. of paste arsenate of lead.

APPLE SCAB SPRAY.

If the above sprayings have been well done, further sprayings should not be necessary. However, if tent-caterpillars or apple scab be troublesome, spray again two weeks after the codling moth spray, with the same mixture.

Snow and McIntosh Red apples should always receive this fourth spraying.

HOW TO MAKE LIME-SULPHUR.

Commercial Lime-sulphur mixture can be bought at any dealers by the gallon or the barrel. If a few trees only are to be sprayed it is better to buy the prepared mixture. If desired, it can be made very cheaply at home.

ture as described, using only one-third gallons of the strong sulphur, to make 40 gals. of the solution. Then take the 2½ lbs. of Arsenate paste and dilute it with little water and work it up into a milky paste. Keep adding more water and keep working it all in solution. The Lead Arsenate should be added to the Lime-sulphur solution just before the spraying started. Pour the milky paste into the barrel, and work the agitator a few moments. The lead arsenate will settle to the bottom, it is important to buy a pump good agitator.

The third spray for Codling may be prepared the same way, one gallon of strong Lime-sulphur 30 gallons of water, and 2½ lbs. Arsenate.

Lead Arsenate is a poison and kills all insects that eat the leaf, fruit, as Tent Caterpillars, C. Worm, etc. Lime-sulphur is aicide, and will prevent all fungous diseases, as Apple Scab and Black Canker and Leaf spot. Lime-sulphur will also kill Oyster-shell Bark and the Leaf blister mite, two common and destructive insects in Lennox and Addington count soon as each spraying is complete the lime-sulphur mixture remaining should be taken out of the barrel a few pails of water put in, and ed out through the hose and Lime-sulphur is very corrosive will soon destroy the hose and if this cleaning is not attended after each spraying.

CULTIVATION OF THE ORCHARD

To establish a young orchard, cultivation must be given for a number of years. There is no serious objection to growing crops such as early potatoes and corn between the trees, and land is well fertilized each season care is taken not to injure the trees through working too close. As soon as the trees come into bearing no other crop should be grown, as the land cannot bear two full crops.

In cultivating an orchard, in that will do farther west will be disaster if followed in this country. Our climate conditions are severe, and the majority of our winter apples, as the Spy, Baldwin and Greening are only hardy here, and unless the methods are followed the trees will kill back each winter.

Plow the orchard early in the fall and work the land at intervals of two weeks until July 1st. About date sow a cover-crop. This will keep the growth of the trees, so that mature their wood before winter in. Green sappy wood will kill at the tips, and such trees will produce little fruit. Rye, oats and buckwheat are all good cover crops. Red clover is also good sown at the rate of 10 lbs. per acre.

If this method of spring cultivation and cover crops be continued apple trees will grow well and healthy.

FERTILIZING THE ORCHARD

An apple orchard in full production drains the soil of fertility. If cover crops be grown and plowed each year, and a good barnyard manure be applied every two years, the soil will be enriched only of the mineral constituents Potash and Phosphoric acid, which to produce fruit. Wood ashes are exceedingly valuable fertilizer for an apple orchard, and tend to produce firm hard wood that will resist decay. Commercial fertilizers used for an apple orchard are phosphoric acid, muriate of potash. These should be applied early in the spring.

Claquers In French Theatres.

The theatrical claquer has ever been an institution in France, especially Paris, where a "chef de claquer" enjoys a recognized status and receives a comfortable income. It is a mistake to suppose that the only duty of claquers is to applaud. A well organized claquer includes some members who have cultivated the art of infectious laughter. These, called "chatouilleurs," attend the lighter forms of drama and laugh so heartily and naturally that their neighbors join in and leave the house convinced that the play must be a most amusing one. Then, too, there are the "pleureurs," who are paid to shake with sobs at the right moment in melodrama.

HOW TO MAKE LIME-SULPHUR.

Commercial Lime-sulphur mixture can be bought at any dealers by the gallon or the barrel. If a few trees only are to be sprayed it is better to buy the prepared mixture. If desired, it can be made very cheaply at home.

The outfit required is a large iron pot suspended so that a fire can be made underneath to boil the mixture. A couple of barrels of water and an empty barrel and hoe are also required.

The materials required are 1 bag of sulphur (112 lbs.) and 1 bus. of lime. By experiments conducted in the spring of 1913, the Napanee Lime was found to be useless for making lime-sulphur, as it caused too much sediment. Beachville lime is the best and will produce a clear solution free from sediment. Renfrew lime also gave good results. If poor lime is used, the mixture will not be satisfactory, and will clog the spray nozzles.

Dump the bag of sulphur into an empty barrel and pour on a few quarts of water, and mix with a hoe. Repeat the process until the sulphur is changed into a milky paste. If too much water is poured on at once, the sulphur will form in lumps, which must be worked out.

Put about 4 pails of water into the kettle and heat. Dump in the lime and when this is slaking vigorously pour in the sulphur paste and stir. Add 40 gals. of water and boil the mixture for one hour after it commences to boil. The mixture will gradually turn from a yellow to a blood-red color. The mixture is finished when all the sulphur has passed into solution.

The mixture is very apt to froth and boil over. A dipper full of cold water poured in will stop this. Constant watching and stirring is necessary.

After cooling, the mixture should be strained into a air-tight barrel, and the barrel filled with water, as the quantities of lime and sulphur used will make exactly 40 gals. of solution. Air gradually weakens the lime-sulphur solution. If a wooden tap is put in the end of the barrel, any desired quantity may be drawn off and used as required. The barrel should be stood in the shade, and in the winter protected from frost.

SPRAYING OUTFIT REQUIRED.

For spraying apple trees a good hand-power barrel pump is required. When buying a pump, buy one of large capacity, as these will give lots of power. The more power the finer the spray can be put on. The spraying material should be supplied in the form of a fine mist. When thus used, less spraying material is required, and the results are better.

A good force pump has a large steel air-chamber which makes it possible for the operator to maintain high pressure and to continue spraying for some time after the pump has stopped. All working parts of the pump should be of brass. The pump should be fitted with 20 feet of hose, and an 8 ft. Bamboo extension rod with nozzle and cut-off. A complete outfit suitable for spraying any average sized orchard can be bought for $25.

Two men are required to spray with this outfit. One to pump and drive while the other sprays. By changing off the labor is not excessive, as once the pressure is up it does not require much pumping to keep it steady.

PREPARING THE SPRAY MIXTURE.

To prepare the first or dormant spray, pour the four gallons of lime-sulphur into the empty barrel, and fill the barrel with water. The solution is now ready to spray on the trees.

To prepare the second spray, when a poison is required, prepare the mix-apple orchard, and tend to firm hard wood that will resist Commercial fertilizers used in apple orchard are phosphoric; muriate of potash. These should be applied early in the spring.

DAIRY VALUE.

In the commercial world it is able to assume that what you pay for what you get determine value. In itself, does not spell price and quality together det value.

As applied to the dairy her does this work out? A farmer not necessarily buy a cow because price is low, he wants quality; case quality may be interpreted mean dairy capacity, or ability to produce plenty of good milk. If a farmer not purchase possibly the heifer into milk has been raised at too high a cost so that her quality is impaired. She may be of the right stock, that is, from of deep milking qualities and a known ability, and all may have suffered from lack of the right food.

The other part of the value of every dairy cow, that is, what you get from her, is right in the dairy owner's hands. He can easily determine each cow's value, or dairy quality, by keeping individual records of production. Then if he wishes to purchase a good cow, her selling price, based by reason of that certificate value, her record, which helps to determine the price. Right buying is economy; the factory patron will get the highest conception of value will or raise, right, and will know. own simple records that each cow's herd separately, not average lump, fits his ideal of value. good standard, make each cow's Milk and feed record forms are supplied free by the Dairy Commission, Ottawa.

described, using only one and a half gallons of the strong Lime-sulphur to make 40 gals. of the solution. Take the 2½ lbs. of Lead arsenate and dilute it with a little water and work it up into a paste. Keep adding a little water and keep working until it is solution. The Lead Arsenate is added to the Lime-sulphur just before the spraying is done. Pour the milky paste into a sprayer and work the agitator for a few moments. The lead arsenate is not well settled to the bottom, so it is important to buy a pump with a agitator.

Use the same way for Codling Moth prepared the same way, using one of strong Lime-sulphur to 15 of water; and 2½ lbs. Lead arsenate.

Lead arsenate is a poison and will kill anything that eat the leaves of the tree. Tent, Caterpillars, Codling Moth, etc. Lime-sulphur is a fungicide and will prevent all fungous diseases: Apple Scab and Black Rot and Leaf spot. Lime-sulphur will kill Cyster-shell Bark Louse and Leaf blister mite, two very destructive insect pests of the apple and the pear. As each spraying is completed, all the sulphur mixture remaining in the tank should be taken out of the barrel, and the water put in, and pump-brought the hose and nozzle. Sulphur is very corrosive, and a destroy the hose and pump-leaving is not attended to when spraying.

PROTECTION OF THE ORCHARD. To establish a young orchard cultist must be given for a number of years. There is no serious objection to growing crops such as early potatoes between the trees if the well fertilized each season, and taken not to injure the trees working too close. However, as the trees come into bearing a crop should be grown, as not bear two full crops.

In cultivating an orchard, methods do farther west will result in if followed in this country. Climate conditions are more and the majority of our best apples, as the Spy, King, and Greening are only half here, and unless correct care is followed the trees will die each winter.

At the orchard early in the spring mark the land at intervals of two until July 1st. About that time a cover-crop. This checks the growth of the trees, so that they their wood before winter sets in. Sappy wood will kill back lips, and such trees will produce little. Rye, oats and buckwheat good cover crops. Red clover good down at the rate of 25 lbs.

The method of spring cultivation over crops be continued, the trees will grow well and remain healthy.

UTILIZING THE ORCHARD. In an apple orchard in full bearing the soil of fertility. However, crops be grown and plowed each year, and a coating of manure be applied at least every two years, the soil will be drained of the mineral constituents, and Phosphoric acid, which go to the fruit. Wood ashes are an equally valuable fertilizer for the orchard, and tend to produce a wood that will resist disease. Special fertilizers used for the orchard are phosphoric acid and of potash. These should be early in the spring.

THE WEEK IN THE LEGISLATURE

ABOLISH THE BAR.

Once again the Government has turned down the Abolish the Bar policy. Tuesday's debate was an interesting one and showed that the Government had no intention of making any real temperance advancement.

Mr. Rowell in his speech emphasized the fact that the Liberal policy of Abolish the Bar was the policy of the organized forces in Ontario making the betterment and that the issue was between them and the organized liquor interests rather than between the Liberals and Conservatives merely as political parties.

Mr. Rowell referred to the petition recently received by the Government from 9000 young Conservatives. He made an offer to the Government that he would co-operate with them in acceding to the petition of these young Conservatives for temperance advance but the Government made no sign to agree to such a proposal.

The Liberal policy of Abolish the Bar which was voted down for the third time is as follows:

"That in the opinion of this House the public interests demand: (1) The immediate abolition of the bar, including therein abolition of all hotel and club licenses and therewith the treating system; (2) such other restrictions upon the residue of the liquor traffic as experience may show to be necessary to limit its operations and effective to remedy its evils. Local Option to be maintained as a means of wiping out the residue of the retail sale, where the electors so decide; (3) the strict enforcement of the law by officials in sympathy with law enforcement, and the elimination of political influence from the administration of the law; (4) regulation and inspection of all houses of public entertainment so as to insure reasonable accommodation for the travelling public."

CABINET DISAGREEMENTS.

It is becoming more and more evident that the split in the Government is widening. The chief difficulty is between Hon. Mr. Hanna and Hon. Mr. Beck and the same disagreement was illustrated last week in the private bills committee on the power question. Hot words were exchanged between the supporters of Mr. Hanna and those of Mr. Beck and what has been rumored before is now an open and a public fact.

There is also friction in the Hydro Electric Commission with Messrs. McNaught and Hendrie voting against Mr. Beck. This other disagreement which was aired in the House, significant and unfortunate for the public interests as it is, is not as important as the split within the Cabinet ranks itself. Without the restraining hand of Sir James Whitney it is plainly evident that there is much intriguing going on among the members of the Government. Lined up with Mr. Hanna and against Mr. Beck are Messrs. Pyne, Reaume and Duff. Hon. Mr. Foy is doing his best to maintain an outward semblance of harmony and Hon. Mr. Hearst and Hon. Mr. Lucas, who are both aspirants for the position of Prime Minister are evidently each playing a lone hand and trying not to be entangled in the dispute. It is stated on good authority that Hon. Mr. Beck has threatened to resign unless he gets better support in the Cabinet for his power scheme.

LEGISLATURE NOTES.

A select committee of the House to enquire into the activities of License Inspector Snider in the recent Scott Act campaigns and the relations of the Government and the liquor interests to Mr. Snider's visits is what the Opposition is asking for. They tried to discuss the question in the Public Accounts Committee but were blocked immediately by the chairman, Howard Ferguson, who acted in a similar capacity in the Public Accounts last year and for whose benefit special legislation was rushed through this Session. Now the Opposition asks for a special Committee.

Several changes in the Election Act are further indications of an early Provincial contest.

Salaries for the three proposed commissioners to administer the Workmen's Compensation Act have been placed by the Government as follows:—Chairman, $10,000 per year; Vice Chairman, $8,500; and third Commissioner, $7,500.

In the Public Accounts Committee, and later in the House, G. H. Bowman, Chief Liberal Whip, showed from statements presented by the Assistant Provincial Treasurer that the majority of the $5,000,000 raised for Northern Ontario development had been expended for other purposes.

A long debate on New Ontario was brought about by a motion by Sam Clarke, Liberal member for West Northumberland, who declared that the Government should undertake a more aggressive publicity campaign to make known the character and resources of the new parts of the Province, should have an intelligent and vigorous immigration policy and should provide adequate transportation and drainage facilities to promote settlement.

It is not often that a Cabinet Minister admits openly that he does not know anything of an important matter which should come under his department. Hon. Dr. Pyne, however, admitted that he had no knowledge of the needs of the University in the way of new buildings except for the statement made by the President and Sir Edmund Walker a week or two ago.

Mr. Rowell pointed out that the University has been asking for these new buildings for over a year and that the Government's lack of knowledge on the question showed how incompetent the Minister of Education was.

Redistribution changes are still being discussed, but nothing final has been decided. The original proposal to make only two Bruces instead of three, thus automatically depriving the Liberals of one member, is likely to be abandoned, although the Bruces will probably be changed about in an attempt to get a Conservative majority in one of the three.

The Husbands of Edith

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright by Dodd, Mead & Co.

After some further discussion and protests the Scotland Yard man and his party left the room to its distracted mistress. It may be well to remark for the sake of local color that Tootles was crying lustily, while Raggles barked in spite of all that O'Brien could do to stop him.

Odell-Carney sent his wife to Edith. A few minutes later, as he was making his way to the office, he came upon Mrs. Rodney and Katherine, hurrying, white faced, to their rooms.

"Oh, isn't it dreadful?" wailed the former, putting her clinched hands to her temples.

"Isn't wot dreadful?" demanded he brutally.

"About Edith! They're going to arrest her."

"Not if I can help it, madam. Where is Mr. Rodney?"

"He hasn't anything to do with it! We're as innocent as children unborn. It's all shocking to us. Mr. Rodney shouldn't be arrested. His rectitude is without a flaw. For heaven's sake, don't implicate him. He's—"

"Madam, I'm not a policeman," said Odell-Carney with scathing dignity. "I want your husband to aid me in bushing this c'nfended thing."

He started away as Mr. Rodney came puffing up the stairs. Odell-Carney changed his mind and waited.

"Where's Edith?" panted Mr. Rodney.

"Good heavens!" groaned his wife, lowering her voice because three chambermaids were looking on from a nearby turn. "Don't mention that creature's name. Just think what she's got us into. He isn't her husband. Alfred, telephone for tickets on tonight's train. Tomorrow will be too late. I won't stay here another minute. Everybody in the hotel is talking. We'll all be arrested."

"But Mr. Rodney, for once, was the head of the family. He faced her sternly.

"Go to your rooms, both of you. We'll stay here until this thing is ended. I don't give a hang what she's done. I'm not going to desert her."

"But—but he isn't her husband!" gasped Mrs. Rodney, struck dumb by this amazing rebellion.

herself appeared on the scene, disheveled, mud splattered and hot, but with a look of firm determination in her face. She burst in upon her sister, a very angry young person indeed.

"Are we alone?" demanded Miss Fowler, not giving Edith time to proclaim her joy at seeing her. "Well, I've arranged a way to get him out," she went on, her lips set.

"Out?" murmured Mrs. Medcroft. "Of course. We can't let him stay in there all night, Edith. How much money have you? Hurry up, please! Don't stare!"

"In where? Who's in where?" "He's in jail!" with supreme scorn. "Haven't you heard?"

Mrs. Medcroft began to cry. "Mr. Brock in jail? Good heavens, what shall I do? I—I was depending on him so much. He ought to be here at this very instant. What has he been doing?"

"Edith Medcroft, stop sniffing and don't think of yourself for awhile. It will do you a great deal of good. Where's your money?"

"I have a little over 4,000 crowns," Edith murmured helplessly.

"Give it me, quick. There's no time to waste. I have about 5,000. It's all in notes, thank heaven. It isn't quite enough, but I'll try to make it do. Don't stop me, Edith. I haven't time to answer questions. He's in jail, didn't you hear me say? And I love him!"

"But the—the money. Is it to bail him out with?"

"Bail? No, my dear, it's to buy him out with. Sh! Is there any one in that room? Well, then, I'll tell you something." The heads of the two sisters were quite close together. "He's in a cell at the—the prison hof, or whatever you call it in German. It's jail in English. I have arranged to bribe one of the jailers—his guard. He will let him escape for 10,000 crowns. We must do it, Edith. Then Mr. Brock will ride over the Brenner pass and catch a train somewhere before his escape is discovered. I expect to meet him in Paris day after tomorrow. Have you heard from Roxbury?"

"No!" wailed Roxbury's wife. "He's a brute!" stormed Miss Fowler.

"Constance!" flared Mrs. Medcroft, aghast at this sign of lese majesty.

"Don't tell anybody," called Constance as she banged the door behind her.

Soon after midnight a closely veiled lady drove up to a street corner adjacent to the city prison, a dolorous looking building which loomed up still and menacing just ahead. She alighted and, dismissing the cab, strode off quickly into the side street. At a distant corner, in front of a crowded eating house, two spirited horses, saddled and in charge of a grumbling stable boy, champed noisily at their bits. The young woman exchanged a few rapid sentences with the boy and then returned in the direction from which she came. A man stepped out of a doorway as she neared the corner, accosting her with a stealthy deference that proclaimed him to be anything but an unwelcome marauder.

After eager pleading on one side and stolid expostulation on the other, a small package passed from the hand of the young woman into the huge paw of the man. The latter gave her a quick, cautious salute and hurried

A Small Package Passed Into the Huge Paw of the Man.

"Not in jail!" she almost shrieked. "I knew it! I knew it could not go wrong. But where is he?"

"He's out on bail. We bailed him out at half past 10—Wot!" She had leaped to her feet with a short scream and was clutching his arm frantically.

"On bail? At half past 10? Good heavens, then—then—oh, are you sure?"

"Positive, ab'slutely."

"Then what has become of my 9,000 crowns?"

"You c'n search me, Constance," murmured Freddie.

"I don't know what you're talking 'bout, Constance," said Mr. Rodney in a very hurt tone. "We—we put up security for five thousand dollars, that's what we did. This is all the thanks we get for it. Ungrateful!"

Constance had been thinking very hard, paying no heed to his maudlin defense. It rapidly was dawning upon her that these men had secured her lover's release on bail at half past 10 o'clock, an hour and a half before she had given her bribe of 9,000 crowns to the jailer. That being the case, it was becoming clear to her that the wretch deliberately had taken the money knowing that Brock was not in the prison and with the plain design to rob her of the amount. It was a transaction in which he could be perfectly secure; bribing of public officials is a solemn offense in Austria and Germany. She could have no recourse, could make no complaint. Her money was gone!

"Where is Mr. Br—Mr. Medcroft?" she demanded, her voice full of anxiety. If he were out of jail why had he failed to come in the meeting place?

"He's locked in," persisted Freddie.

"That's just it, Miss Fowler," explained Odell-Carney glibly. "You see—see, it was this way: We got him out on bail on condition he'd 'pear tomorrow morning 'fore the magistrate. After we'd got him out he insisted on coming 'round here so's he could run out in cautious tones, asking wot there, at the same time slipping bed to fumble in the darkness clothes.

"Sh!" came from the hallway rushed over and put his ear door. "It is I. Are you awake? Can't stay here. It's wrong. Here's a note—under the door, night, darling! I'm heartbroken. "Thank God, it's you!" he cried. "How I love you, Constance!" "Sh! Edith is with me!" wish it were morning and I could see you. I have so much to say."

Another querulous voice broke in. "For heaven's sake, Connie, stand here any longer. Our relations are bad enough as it is, night—Roxbury!" He distinctly the heartless Edith giggle. The soft, quick swish of garments the nocturnal visitors were going picked up the envelope and, until they were safely down turned on the light.

"Dearest," he read, "it was my fault and I know it was not. But, oh, you don't know how I loved all through those hours of at the cafe. They did not find till after 2. They were drunk, tried to explain. What do you the authorities will do to me find that I gave that horrid money? Really, I'm terribly I But he won't dare say anything he? "I'm not going to say anything, declared Edith angrily. "I'm a bed."

"Edith, if you don't mind, think I'll sleep with you." After a moment of deep reflection she plaintively: "There is so much just have to tell you, dear, won't keep till daylight."

But Mr. Rodney, for once, was the head of the family. He faced her sternly.

"Go to your rooms, both of you. We'll stay here until this thing is ended. I don't give a hang what she's done. I'm not going to desert her."

"But—but he isn't her husband!" gasped Mrs. Rodney, struck dumb by this amazing rebellion.

"But she's your cousin, isn't she, madam?" he retorted with fierce irony. "I disown her!" wailed his wife, sans raison.

"Go to your rooms!" stormed pudgy Mr. Rodney. Then, as they slunk away, he turned to the approving Odell-Carney, sticking out his chest a trifle in his new found authority. "I say, Carney, what's to be done next?"

"We'll have a drink first and then see," he said.

As they were entering the buffet a cheery voice accosted them from behind. Freddie Ulstervelt came up, red with distress in his face.

"I say, count me in on this. I'll buy, if I may. I've just heard the news from the door porter. Beastly shame, isn't it? I had Mlle. Le Brun over to hear the band concert—she's related to that painter woman, by the way; I told Katherine she was. Say, gentlemen, we'll stand by Mrs. Medcroft, won't we? Count me in. If it's anything that money can square I'm here with a letter of credit six figures long."

"Join us," said Odell-Carney warmly. "You're a good sort, after all."

They sat down at a table. Freddie stood between them, a hand on the shoulder of each. Very seriously he was saying:

"I say, gentlemen, we can't abandon a woman at a time like this. We must stand together. All true sports and black sheep should stand together, don't you know?"

It is possible that Odell-Carney appreciated the subtlety of this compliment. Not so Mr. Rodney.

"Sports? Black sheep? Upon my soul, sir, I don't understand you," he mumbled. Mr. Rodney, although he hailed from Seattle, had never known anything but a clean and unrumpled conscience.

Freddie clapped him jovially on the shoulder. "It's all right, Mr. Rodney. I'll take your word for it. But if we are black sheep we shan't be black guards. We'll stand by the ship. What's to be done? Bail 'em out?"

Mrs. Medcroft despite Mrs. Odell-Carney's friendly offices refused point blank to discuss the situation. She did not dare to do or say anything as yet. Her husband had not telegraphed the word releasing her from the sorry compact. She loyally decided to stand by the agreement no matter what the cost until she received word from London that he had triumphed or failed in his brave fight against the "bloodsuckers."

"I will explain tomorrow, dear Mrs. Odell-Carney," she pleaded. "Don't press me now. Everything shall be all right. Oh, how I wish Constance were here! She understands. But she's listening to silly love talk and doesn't even care what happens to me. But ton, will you be good enough to spank Tootles if she doesn't stop that screaming?"

By 9 o'clock that night every one was discussing the significant disappearance of Constance Fowler and the fraudulent husband of Mrs. Medcroft. Just as Mr. Odell-Carney was preparing to announce to the unfortunate wife that the couple had eloped in the most cowardly fashion, Miss Fowler way as she sneaked toward the corner, accusing her with a stealthy deference that proclaimed him to be anything but an unwelcome marauder.

After eager pleading on one side and stolid expostulation on the other, a small package passed from the hand of the young woman into the huge paw of the man. The latter gave her a quick, cautious salute and hurried back toward the jail.

The veiled young woman, very nervous and strangely agitated, made her way back to the spot where the horses were standing. Making her way through the cluster of small tables which lined the inner side of the sidewalk she found one unoccupied at the extreme end, a position which commanded a view of the street down which she had just come.

Half past 1, then 2 o'clock. The merry-makers were thinning out; she was quite alone at her end of the place. By this time a close observer might have noticed that she was trembling violently; there was an air of abject fear and despair in her manner.

Why did he not come? What had happened? Had the plot failed? Was he even now lying wounded unto death as the result of his effort to escape captivity? A hundred horrid thoughts raced through her throbbing, overwrought brain. He should have been with her two hours ago—he should now be far on his way to freedom. Alas, something appalling had happened, she was sure of it!

At last there he was in sight, coming from the direction in which lay the prison, a group of three men. It was a jaunty party, evidently under the influence of many libations.

They bore down upon her. The next instant they were solemnly shaking hands with her, much to her dismay.

"Constance, we've been lookin' f-for you ever'where in town. W-where on earth 're you been?" asked Mr. Rodney thickly, with a laudable attempt at severity.

"Ever since 'leven o'clock, Constance," supplemented Freddie, trying to frown.

"My dear Miss F-Fowler," began Odell-Carney in his most suave manner.

"It is after 2 o'clock. In—in the morning at that. You—you shouldn't be sittin' here all 'lone this—this hour in the morning. Please come home with us. Your mother hash—has ask us to fetch you—I mean your sister. Beg pardon."

"I—I cannot go, gentlemen," she stammered. "Please don't insist—please don't ask why. I cannot go—"

"I shay, Constance, by Jove, the joke's on you," exclaimed Freddie. "I know who 't ish you're waitin' f-for. Well, he can't come. He's locked in."

"Freddie, you are drunk!" in deep scorn.

"I know it," he admitted cheerfully. "We've looked ever'where for you. We're your frien's. He said it was at 'n eatin' house. We've been ever' eatin' house in Inebbrook. Was here first of all. Leave it to Rodney. Wassen we, Rodney? You bet we was. You wassen here at 'leven o'clock. Come on home, Constance. 'S all right. He's safe. He can't come."

"But he will come, unless something terrible has happened to him," she almost sobbed in her desperation. "Cousin Alfred, won't you go to the jail and see what has happened?"

"Permit me," interrupted Odell-Carney with grave dignity. "Your friend, Miss Fowler, is not in jail. He is out!"

ty. If he were out of jail why had he failed to come in the meeting place?

"He's locked in," persisted Freddie.

"That's just it, Miss Fowler," explained Odell-Carney glibly. "You shée—see, it was this way: We got him out on bail on condition he'd 'pear to-morrow morning 'fore the magistrate. After we'd got him out he insisted on coming 'round here so's he could run away with you. That wassen a genelmanly thing to do after we'd put up our money. We coul'n' afford have him runnin' away with you. So we had him locked in a room on top floor of the hotel, where he can't get out 'n' leave us to hold the bag, don't you see. He almos' cried an' said you'd be waitin' at the church or—something like that bally song, don't you know, an' as a lash reshort, to keep him quiet like a good ferrer-feller, we said we'd come an' get you an' 'splain everything sassis-sasac—ahem!—sassisfac'riy."

She looked at them with burning eyes. Slow rage was coming to the flaming point. And for this she had sat and suffered for hours in a street restaurant! For this! Her eyes fell upon the limp horses and the dejected stable boy. Two hours!

"You will release him at once!" she stormed. "Do you hear? It is outrageous!"

Without another word to the dazed trio she rushed to the curb and commanded the boy to assist her into the saddle. He did so, in stupid amazement. Then she instructed him to mount and follow her to the Tirol as fast as he could ride. The horses were tearing off in the darkness a moment later.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Prodigal Husband.

THE unlucky Brock, wild with rage and chagrin, had paced his temporary prison in the top story of the Tirol from 11 o'clock till 2, bitterly cursing the fools who were 'keeping him in durance more vile than that from which they had generously released him. He realized that it would be unwise to create a disturbance in the house by clamoring for freedom, because, in the first place, there already had been scandal enough, and, in the second place, his distrustful bondsmen had promised faithfully to seek out the devoted Constance and apprise her of his release. He had no thought, of course, that in the meantime she might be duped into paying a bribe to the guard.

Not only was he direfully cursing the trio, but also the addlepated Medcroft and his own addlepated self. It is to be feared that he had harsh thoughts of all the Medcrofts, as far down as Raggles. His dream of love and happiness had turned into a nightmare; the comedy had become a tragic snarl of all the effects known to melodrama.

It occurred to him at 2 o'clock that pacing the floor in the agony of suspense was a very useless occupation. He would go to bed. Morning would bring relief and surcease to his troubled mind. Constance was doubtless sound asleep in her room. Everything would have been explained to her long before this hour. She would understand. So, with the return of his old sophistry, he undressed and crawled into the strange bed. Somehow he did not like it as well as the cot in the balcony below.

Just as he was dropping off into the long delayed slumber, he heard a light tapping at his door. He sat up in bed like a flash, thoroughly wide awake. The tapping was repeated. He called clared Edith angrily. "I'm going to bed."

"Edith, if you don't mind, I think I'll sleep with you." After ment of deep reflection she plaintively: "There is so much just have to tell you, deary, won't keep till daylight."

Bright and early in the morning tired, harassed night farers were ed from their rooms by a demand the management of the hotel that appear forthwith in the private. This order included every member Mr. Rodney's party, excepting Medcroft baby. Considerably ed and very much concerned of probable outcome of the conference the Rodney forces made their offices—not altogether in a fashion, but by humiliateing avenues. "One moment, please," she said. "This all can be satisfactorily explained. No wrong has been done. It will all be cleared up in time. We"—

"In time?" interrupted the manager. "Madam, this is the time. You are here with a man who is not your husband, yet who purports to be such."

"It may throw some light on the matter if I announce that the gentleman in question is my affianced husband." It was Miss Fowler who spoke. Every one stared at her as she moved over to Brock's side.

"If you will look in the office you will find a telegram there for me," went on Mrs. Medcroft, pale, but absolutely confident. The manager called out through the door. Absolute silence reigned while the reply was awaited.

"No telegram for Mrs. Medcroft last night or today," announced the manager sternly as he glanced through the slim bunch of blue envelopes. "There are four here for a Mr. Brock, who has not yet arrived in"—

"Brock!" shouted three voices in one.

A tall man, forgetting his English and his eyeglass, sprang forward and grabbed the telegrams from the manager's hand. "Holy mackerel! Give 'em here!" he shouted. Two eager, beautiful young women were hanging to his elbows as he ruthlessly broke one of the seals. "The chump! It's from Rox! They're all from Rox—and they are two or three days old!"

Just then the unexpected happened.

The office door opened with a bang, and the real Roxbury Medcroft stepped into the room. He halted just inside the door and looked about in momentary bewilderment.

"This is a private"—began the manager, stepping forward. A flying fig-matter, my wife may have something to say about the outrage that has been perpetrated."

"When did you arrive, old man?" "Last night on the 12:10. I registered as Smith. It was so late that I decided not to disturb Edith. They said in the office that you'd gone to bed. Brock, Now that I recall it, they said it in a very odd way too. In fact, one of the clerks asked if I had it in for you too."

"You were here all night?" murmured Constance in plaintive misery.

"Well, not precisely all night. Connie. Half of it," replied Roxbury. "Brock, you ass, I telegraphed you I was coming and asked you to meet me at the station. I telegraphed twice from London and"—

"Don't call me an ass," grated Brock. "Why didn't you send 'em to me as Medcroft? I haven't been Brock until this very morning."

"Pon my soul, Brock, it was rather stupid of me," he confessed sheepishly. "But, you see," with an inspired smile, "one of 'em was to congratulate you on winning Connie. By Jove, you know, I couldn't very well address that one to myself."

"But—but he hadn't won me," stammered Constance Fowler.

"Edith," said Roxbury, deep reproach in his voice, "you wrote me that a week ago." Edith merely squeezed his arm.

Odell-Carney came forward and extended his hand. "Permit me to introduce myself, sir. I am George Odell-Carney. It has given me great pleasure to serve you without knowing you. In my catalogue of personalities you have posed intermittently as a demmed bounder, a deceived husband, a betrayed lover, a successful lover and a lot of other things I can't just now recall. Acting on the presumption that you might have been a friend in distress, I worked hard in your interest. Now I discover, to my gratification, you are a perfect stranger, whom I am proud to meet. Permit me to offer my warmest felicitations and to assure you that Mr. Brock will make a

It included every member of Rodney's party, excepting the little baby. Considerably distressed—very much concerned over the outcome of the conference, they forces made their way to the room—not altogether in an open but by humiliatingly unusual means. The Rodney family came back stairs. Brock was solaced through the public office of Mr. Odell-Carney and Freddie. It is not stretching the truth to say that they were sour and out, as may be suspected, from the different causes. It was quite noticeable that Mrs. Brock and Katherine did not speak of Medcroft contingent—in fact, ignored them quite completely. Rodney was very pale and very distressed. She cast many glances at the red eyed and sheepish Brock—glances that meant much further torture of his soul.

He was sorry to inform you, Herr Rodney, the rooms which you now occupy those of your friends are not at your disposal. They have been engaged for from some time this morning.

"Here," interrupted Odell-Carney, "if you mean that we are tired here any longer, why not don't lie about it. We are today, in any event, so what's new? Now, come down to facts. Are we summoned here like a school children?"

Mr. Brock looked at Mr. Githens at the police officer. "It seems that Herr Grabbe the police department desires some questions of your party in connection. You will understand, sir, the hotel has been imposed upon these people. It seems, also, the bank insists upon having some rown upon the methods by which Mrs. Medcroft secures money for credit."

"We are welcome to all that, sir," Mr. Odell-Carney, "but I am not to know just why my wife brought into this affair." "Because you are guests of Mr. Rodney. I regret to state. We have no right against you, sir. You are here. The—the others are here—are what you call it? It may be that they also needed you!"

Mr. Brock at this point leaped to and rushed over to shake his face of the insulting hotel

The Real Roxbury Medcroft Stepped Into the Room.

He sped past him; a delighted little shriek rang in his ears. He saw Edith Medcroft hurl herself into the arms of her own husband. At the same moment Brock bounded across the room and pounced eagerly upon the welcome intruder.

"This is my husband!" cried Edith, triumph in her voice, tears in her eyes, as she faced the astonished observers. "Now, what have you to say?"

CHAPTER XV.

What? Another Husband.

IT was a perfectly natural, but not an especially obvious question. The little manager threw up his hands and cried out in a sad mixture of French, English and Helvetian:

"What? Another husband? Madam, how many more do you propose to inflict us with? We cannot allow it! The management will not permit you to change husbands the instant a new guest arrives in the house. It is not to be heard of—no, no!"

"Are you afraid that the books won't balance?" asked Brock, with a joyous grin, a great load off his heart. "Ladies and gentlemen, permit me to introduce Mr. Roxbury Medcroft, my friend and fellow conspirator. He is the husband of this lady, not I. I am to be the husband of this lady, thank God!"

There was a moment of absolute silence—it may have been stupor. The two audiences faced each other with emotions widely at variance. It was Mrs. Rodney who spoke first.

"Is this true, Edith?" she quavered. "Yes, yes, yes!" cried Edith, her eyes dancing.

"Then, what are you doing here with a man who isn't your husband?" demanded Mrs. Rodney, suddenly aflame.

"I can explain everything to you later on, Mrs. Rodney," interposed Mrs. Odell-Carney calmly. She had divined at least a portion of the truth, and she was clever enough to put herself on the right side. Edith cast an involuntary look of surprise at the Englishwoman. "I have known everything from the first. Mrs. Medcroft and I are closer friends than you may have thought." She gave Edith a meaningful look and a moment later was whispering to her in a private corner of the private office: "My dear, I don't know what it means, but you must tell me everything as soon as possible. I am your friend. Whatever it all is, it's ripping!"

Medcroft finally waved every one aside in the most degage manner imaginable.

"Don't crowd me! Hang it all, I'm not a curiosity. There isn't anything to go crazy about. My friend, Mr. Brock, has just done me a trifling favor. That's all. The whole story will be in the London papers this morning. Buy 'em. I'm going up to my wife's room to see my baby. I'll come down and explain everything when I've had a bit of a breathing spell. It's annoying to have had this fuss about a simple little matter of generosity on the part of my friend, who, I've no doubt, has been a most exemplary husband. I'll see to it, by Gad, that he receives the proper apologies. And, for that

Edison Diamond Disc

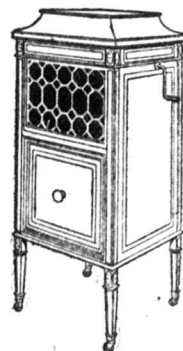

The Phonograph with the new voice

This wonderful Edison achievement is more than an amusement phonograph. It is a beautiful musical instrument—beautiful in tone and beautiful in design. It represents years of study and experiment in sound reproducing and musical acoustics.

The Special Reproducer, with its diamond point, has given the instrument a new voice—tones of marvelous depth and mellowness.

The records are of a material heretofore unknown to record making. Years of playing will not affect their perfect playing qualities.

All Edison Discs are of the cabinet (hornless) type, made of rare woods along graceful lines. Hear this new Edison. Compare it with any others you have heard. It is a decided advancement in musical reproduction.

New Year Calls in China.

New Year calls are the custom in China, and you have to pay them in festive attire of silk or satin.

These fine clothes says Archdeacon Moule in the Chinese People can be hired, the price being gradually lowered as the hours of the first six days pass by. We complained once of the very late arrival of a caller, who should have been among the first to salute us. He replied that money was scarce, and he was obliged to wait for the cheapest day to secure a fine robe already donned and doffed by a dozen of others. During these ceremonial days the whole community seems to give itself over to indiscriminate gambling, a practice illegal and condemned both by Chinese law and standards of morality, but winked at during this season.

The Missing Window Pane.

"Every kitchen has a window with one pane out in the Brazilian town of Rio Grande do Sul," said a cook. "That town is a servants' paradise. Servants live in their own homes there, as they should everywhere. They come to work at 7 in the morning, and they quit at 7 at night, a twelve hour day. Quite long enough. The paneless window is for the milkman, the baker, the butcher, so that these traders can leave their supplies—they usually come early—in a safe place. The Rio Grande servant is, of course, not there to receive them. She is in bed at her own home."

Sizing Him Up.

An eminent Scotch astronomer tells this excellent story against himself. He once explained in a lecture that a certain star looked no bigger than a threepenny bit a hundred miles away. After the discourse one of the audience said to him:

"You must be a Scotsman, for no one but a Scotsman would trouble about a threepenny bit a hundred miles off."

BUSTED AGAIN.

The Blanks when New Year came around
Both signed a resolution
That they wouldn't break—oh, no mistake—
Until their dissolution.

She would not say an unkind word
Nor never call him "Sis,"
And home henceforth she'd make for him
A heaven of sweet bliss.

His temper Blank henceforth would hold
Within an iron grip
And never pull her false hair off
Nor call her "You old rip!"

But she his razor used for corns.
He broke a china plate.
This complicated everything
And led to a debate.

Then her emergency wouldn't work;
Her tongue just flew round loose.
His temper blew the safety off
At such awful abuse.

There was a fearful blowout then.
They both joyridded rash.
The shebang took an awful skid
And busted all to smash.

OVERWORKING THE HEN.

Hens, where system is used, are as much harnessed as a horse and may be driven to death or rendered unfit for future profit, or their energy may be so conserved that a good profit on the investment may be returned. Many drive their hens too hard in winter.

To get eggs in quantity they feed much rich, forcing food to stimulate the ovary, and thus digestive system and egg machinery are both overtaxed. To get eggs many feed red pepper, fenugreek, mustard or patented egg dope. These may hurry a few eggs ahead of the natural schedule, but cause injury to oviduct and digestive system, often kill the hen or burn out her egg machinery so she never lays again. It does seem cowardly to sneak dope into an unsuspecting hen's food. It often causes suffering and certainly is unnecessary where hens are of good stock, the proper age and properly cared for. People should be satisfied with a fair return on the investment, but high egg prices influence some to thus drive their hens too fast. This is why breeding stock is often no good in the spring. They have been "worked to death" all winter, and what eggs they lay are generally small, infertile or hatch weak chicks.

FEATHERS AND EGGSHELLS.

Yes, turkeys like fresh air, and their thick feathers are a protection against cold. But there's a limit. They should be protected against fierce storms and fed regularly and well during the winter.

This is certainly a big country and most too large for the law to handle, and it certainly is a task to catch all the food dopers. Tuberculosis beef and meat fixed with preservatives are sold to the public without compunction or fear of detection. The best way to get ahead of such swindlers is to eat less meat or raise your own.

The shipments of poultry, eggs and feathers from the 114 counties of Missouri last year reached $30,902,416. Missouri's poultry product is $50,000,000 per year, the result of pushing poultry culture, and every state in the Union has the same chance.

You fellows that raise wheat needn't hold your heads so high. The whole wheat crop of 50,184,000 acres was only $610,120,000. The American hen's egg crop was over $500,000,000, and that was only half her crop and from much less land than the wheat acreage and with less expense.

A brooder house pays best where a good number of chicks must be hatched.

Over 73,000 auto licenses were issued in Pennsylvania the past season, and mighty few of them didn't average killing one chicken. Pretty hard on farm poultry, but as an offset they paid a tax of $750,000, to be applied to road building.

When news came from the North American egg laying competition that an Englishman's White Leghorn had broken the world's record by laying 292 eggs in a year, English fanciers went glad and Americans got sad and mad. But read this, you cranks: An American hen, half Leghorn and White Rock, has just skinned them all by finishing her year's record at the Oregon experiment station to the tune of 303 eggs. She did not stop to celebrate, but kept right on laying. Next.

The oldest chicken thief to be apprehended in Pennsylvania is eighty years old, sentenced in December to the Lancaster jail. Think of it—so near the grave and yet a knave!

Where nests are dark and roomy and sufficient for the hens you seldom see egg eating. Hens will always rush for a broken egg because like most humans they know a good thing when they see it.

The state game farm at Forked River, N. J., is a success. Forty incubator hatched quail, 200 wild Mallard ducklings, thousands of English pheasants and a wild turkey gobbler and ten hens live in the wild natural surroundings and promise well for future extension of the work.

It is real amusing to hear the remarks of male kickers when women exhibit fowls at the shows as if women weren't the producers of the bulk of the poultry in this country. There should be three jackass classes at the shows. One should be for fellows that knock the judge, the next for the fellow who knocks the show management, the third, or big jackass class, should be for the fellows who criticize women for exhibiting their birds.

Frequency of Farrowing.

Experience shows that a sow that grows eight pigs to maturity twice a year is more profitable than one that produces more pigs and fails to develop them. Usually the sow has sufficient milk for eight, and when they are allowed to suckle six to eight weeks the pigs are in prime condition to wean without having any setback. The sow can generally be bred successfully on the third day after weaning, and it is no trouble to have her produce two good litters a year if you give her proper attention.

position, though excellent forage. Their ears stand erect. Their bodies are long and deep, indicating maximum bacon possibilities as well as capacity for carrying, easily farrowing and properly nourishing large litters of pigs for which they are noted. The illustration shows a Yorkshire sow of excellent form.

herself three or four days before pigs are due to arrive. The best nest should consist of a small amount of straw or chaff, and if the litter coming early in the season the nest should be good and warm. No chaff should be made in the feed immediately preceding farrowing. The most commonly made is to feed a sow too heavily immediately after pigs are farrowed. The danger is too heavy feeding at this time. The first twenty-four hours the sow should receive no grain whatever, but should be supplied with all the water she can drink. The feeding the first three or four days should be very light, gradually working up heavier feeds as the pigs get older and make heavier demands on the sow's milk.

It is a detriment to feed the sow heavily at first. Heavy feeding tends to stimulate too large a secretory milk, which invariably produces gestation and kindred troubles in pigs and at times may even produce a feverish condition in the sow. After the first week or ten days the sow with a good sized litter will quire about all the feed she will sume.

KEEP THE SKIMMILK.

No Economy In Shipping Light Cream of Heavy Cream.

The man who ships cream often wonders whether he shall make it thick or says the Farm Journal. All the is in favor of a cream that is at 40 per cent fat. The milk mixed butter fat is what makes it sour spoil. Other things being right heavy cream will keep better and longer than a thin one. Cream of 40 cent or higher not only stands transportation better, but is cheaper to ship. A gallon of 20 per cent cream contains one and two-thirds pounds of fat same quantity of 40 per cent contains three and one-third pounds, and the expense of shipping the light cream is just as great as for the heavy.

Twenty per cent cream contains per cent of skimmilk, which the farmer not only throws away, but expresses on besides. In other words a pound of skimmilk shipped costs much as a pound of fat and but nothing, besides being given away where if it were fed to calves a certain profit would result. The rule should be to keep at home every pint of skimmilk possible. The creamery does pay for it, but the pigs do.

MAKING SCRAP BOOKS.

Work Done by Children's Missionary Guild For Sick and Crippled.

Although the making of scrap books is no new idea and many are manufactured every year by Sunday school children and members of church guilds for the benefit of children in hospitals, they are always welcome. Not every one makes them in just the same way. A woman in charge of a children's missionary guild who has made a number of scrap books for sick and crippled children gives the following directions for the work:

The books that the children made were fashioned of plain colored wall paper, which was bought in short ends of pretty light colors at a low price. The paper was cut into strips twenty-four inches long and ten inches wide, each sheet folded once, thus making them 12 by 10, each book containing twelve of these double sheets. The children collected the pictures, which were cut out and sorted at the first meetings before the pasting began. In the sorting process pictures that would best please little girls were put together; also those most suitable for boys. Animal pictures were put together, as well as pictures suitable for very small children. Boiled paste was made in quantity when the pasting began, a little being given to each child in a tin pattypan, with a paint brush for the pasting. The children arranged the pictures to suit themselves. When a book of twelve leaves was finished holes were punched and the sheets tied with ribbons or cords.

The scrap books described above are of a good size for sick children to hold. The mistake is too often made of having them too large and unwieldy for a child who is weak to enjoy.

Children are delighted with cutouts of any kind. Magazines that contain fashion pictures, especially colored ones, supply little girls with a collection of dolls. They not only love to cut them out, but they will play for hours with the dolls, as they call the figures. Animal pictures charm little boys, who sometimes construct entire miniature zoos in this way.

CRAPES IN SPRING.

Crapes are just the materials to take on gracefully the lines of the new models which Paris has elected we shall follow. It is predicted that crape will be one of the most popular fabrics this spring and summer. Illustrated here is a smart gown for afternoon wear, which is carried out entirely in silk crape. The tunic drapery is what is known as the corkscrew, following in its lines the graceful spiral of this utensil. Colored buttons and bands of satin give a touch of color to the garment.

I was laid up for four winters with Sciatica and Muscular Rheumatism, and was a cripple completely, not being able to do anything. I doctored with four different physicians, but they did not help me. Other advertised remedies were equally unsatisfactory, and I have taken several.

KEEP THE SKIMMILK.

Economy In Shipping Light Instead of Heavy Cream.

Any man who ships cream often asks whether he shall make it thick or thin, says the Farm Journal. All the logic in favor of a cream that is at least 40 per cent fat. The milk mixed with water is what makes it sour and other things being right, a cream will keep better and longer in a thin one. Cream of 40 per cent higher not only stands transportation better, but is cheaper to ship. A pound of 20 per cent cream contains only two-thirds pounds of fat; the quantity of 40 per cent holds only one-third pounds, and the expense of shipping the light cream is great as for the heavy. Forty per cent cream contains 80 per cent of skimmilk, which the dairyman must throw away, but pays for it on the other side. In other words, a pound of skimmilk shipped costs as much as a pound of fat and brings as much, besides being given away. If it were fed to calves a certain amount would result. The rule should be kept at home every pint of skimmilk possible. The creamery doesn't want it, but the pigs do.

The boy's mother was Miss Nannie Langhorne, and she was born in Virginia. So it seems natural enough that the young lad should have American ideas. Just before he sailed back to his English home Bill, as he likes to be called, said that he hoped to be a carpenter when he grew up. "My son," said his mother, "is a real American boy. He is Bill to every one. Nobody calls him anything else, and he doesn't like other names." Last Christmas the boy received a box of tools and since then he has used them at every opportunity. He took them back to England with him, and as all the Astors have been workers, he may yet be a carpenter. But it will be merely play for him. He won't have to earn his living in that way. On his way across the Atlantic Bill passed the time drawing pictures. He explained that he intended to sell them. Bill seems to be a real American, sure enough.

The Messenger Sparrow.

It was one of those summer days in the middle west when the heat became unbearable, the farmer was compelled to retreat from his fields and take refuge from the scorching sun.

He had been resting for some little time when he became conscious of a persistent twittering about his ears. Looking up, he saw a little sparrow, which had evidently come in through the open window.

The farmer tried to drive the bird away, but each time it returned, immediately darting off again and constantly chirping as though in an effort to attract his attention.

At last, his curiosity aroused, he followed the little bird to the doorway. When he looked out he saw, to his astonishment, that a fierce storm was rapidly approaching.

Immediately the farmer drove the cattle under cover. As is their wont, they were apparently enjoying the intense heat that precedes such a storm and were grazing far from shelter.

In the violent storm that followed hail of immense size descended with such great velocity that all the cattle would undoubtedly have perished had they not been sheltered.

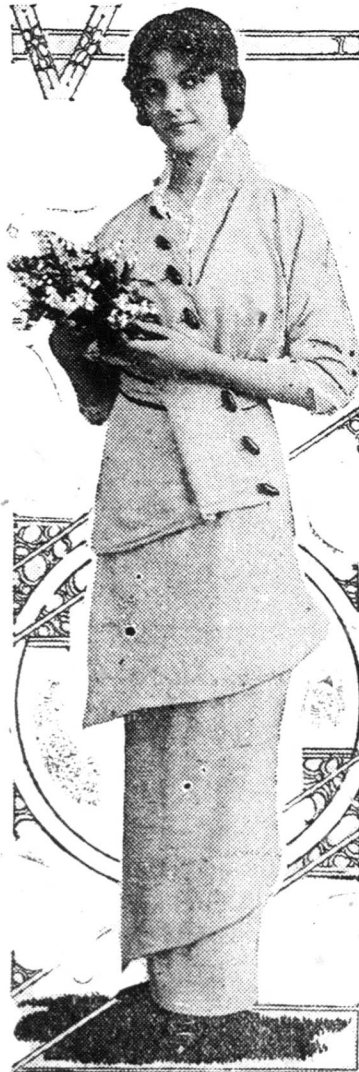

You can imagine how thankful the farmer was to the little sparrow for his timely warning.

Burning Wood.

Wood crackles when it is ignited because the air expanded by heat forces its way through the pores of the wood with a crackling noise. Green wood makes less snapping than dry because the pores contain less air, being filled with sap and moisture, which extinguish the flame, whereas the pores of dry wood are filled with air, which supports combustion.

Mutton Chops With Bacon.

Trim and wipe mutton chops, dust with salt and pepper, rub over with a little soft butter and broil under a clear flame. Have a slice of bacon for each chop, cut thin, and place in a dripping pan in a hot oven until it is crisp and curly. Place frills on the chop bones, lay a slice of bacon on each chop and serve hot, garnished with parsley.

the figure by broad ribbon sashes in the form of tie backs. The new panniers or short tunics are used over the hips of these plaited dresses, while the sashes encircle the figure at a point just below the edge of the pannier.

They are adjusted to fit snugly to the figure, so that the plaits of the skirt are kept in place. Large bows finish the back, sometimes with loose falling ends and sometimes just ending in two big loops. Sometimes plaited tunics are worn with these plaited skirts in one or two tiers, with narrow ruffles at the edge to increase the width at the hips.

Before noon the hotel was agog with the full details of the remarkable story. Cabled dispatches in the newspapers gave the gist of the clever trick played by the Medcrofts, and the whole of England was to ring with the stories of Mrs. Medcroft's pluck and devotion.

The management of the Tirol implored the Medcrofts to remain—forever! The bank and the police were profuse in apologies and explanations, and Mr. Githens departed by the first train.

Freddie Ulstervelt, killing two birds with one stone, arranged a splendid dinner for that night in honor of the prodigal husband of Edith and also in open compliment to the vivacious Mlle. Le Brun.

Later in the day it occurred to him that he might just as well kill three birds as two, so he planned to announce the betrothal of Miss Fowler and Mr. Brock, the wedding to take place a fortnight hence in Mayfair. The Rodneys were invited to "stop over" for the spread. It is left for the reader to supply the answer to this simple question:

Did they stop over?

THE END.

Clinching the Argument.

At a club meeting held in a public house in a small village a discussion took place as to whether a hard or soft substance would last the longer. The debate continued for some time, until one man spoke up and said:

"Now, men, you are all mistaken, as I can easily prove. When me and my wife married she had as good a set of teeth as any woman could have; now she hasn't got one, and her tongue is as good as ever."—London Tit-Bits.

An alarm of fire was sounded and the firemen were soon on the scene, but owing to the density of the smoke it was some time before the location of the fire was reached. However, it was extinguished before much damage was done. The fire apparently had its origin in some boxes, barrels, etc., in the cellar and just how it got its start is a mystery. The stock in the store was not damaged beyond that caused by the smoke.

The Lecture To-night.

Dr. George H. Locke, who is to lecture at the Historical Society meeting to-night, was selected after a most careful survey of the entire American Library field to fill the position as Chief Librarian of the Toronto Public Library, made vacant by the death of the late Dr. Rain. Since Mr. Locke's appointment the Toronto Library has made wonderful advancement and it is through progressive measures introduced by him that the library has been able to lead all Canada in library work. His lecture to-night is one that will appeal to all friends of the Society and we recommend everyone who is fond of a good lecture to be present. The meeting will open at 8 o'clock.

Medals Presented.

Napanee Lodge No. 86, I. O. O. F., held a very successful social evening and banquet on Tuesday evening, the feature of the evening being the presentation of veterans jewels to four members of the lodge who have been faithful workers in the order for twenty-five years or more. After the usual routine of lodge work a number of guests, not members of the order, joined the gathering and cards, games and social intercourse entertained the gathering for an hour or so after which a splendid lunch was served. Following the lunch Messrs. Richard Spencer, Trenton, E. I. Boyle, J. R. Daffoe and G. F. Ruttan, K.C., were presented with their worthy won veterans jewels and addresses. Short replies were made by the recipients. Mr. Robt. Meek, Kingston, gave a splendid address, and Mr. Marshall, organizer for the A.O.U.W., delighted the gathering with songs and jests.

Ask the milk-drawer about our milk-cans, and he will tell you that they are the best on the wagon. All sizes, and we have a good stock on hand, but they won't last long. M. S. Models
